

Exchange program gives teens chance to study abroad

Interculture Canada, the largest international exchange organization in the country announces the launching of its annual recruitment campaign for 1991 winter departures. Teenagers between the ages of 15 and 18 will have the opportunity to live and study abroad for one year.

Students who take up this challenge will study in another country and be integrated into a family whose culture and language could be completely different from their own. Adolescents must show a high degree of maturity, an open mind, and an ability to adapt easily, if they are to make the most of this unique experience.

Interculture Canada offers winter departures for nine countries in Asia, Oceania and South America, and summer departures for other countries of the world. In 1991, over 300 Canadians will travel to approximately 37 different countries around the world with Interculture Canada.

Now is the time for students to apply if they wish to spend a year in Australia, New Zealand, Japan, Thailand, Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Ecuador or Costa Rica (a semester program is also available for Costa Rica). Departures for these destinations take place between the months of January and May 1991. Do not wait as there is a limited number of places available!

Everything is included in the participation fee, which is comparable to the cost of supporting an adolescent in Canada. Financial assistance is available to students with an excellent profile, but whose families are unable to pay the full amount.

Interculture Canada is a not-for-profit, non-governmental organization that promotes intercultural learning and international development. As a member of AFS Intercultural Programs, Interculture Canada is part of the largest network of student exchange programs in the world. Presently in 54 countries, AFS is renowned for the quality of its programs and for the dedication of its 100,000 volunteers.
