BATTLE FOR THE BALL

Georgetown Falcons player Terry Dixon battles a Milton opponent for a loose ball during a Peel-Halton contest at Alcott field last week. The Falcons

Who will be new soccer king?

By ALEX TOUGH
The King is dead! Long live the King!

So it goes as one reign ends and another begins. Pele to Beckenbauer to Maradona to?

Who will now emerge as the new 'king'. I do not think that anyone being asked to name the greatest player of all time would not choose Pele. However, no matter how great Pele was he was purely an attacking player, a player of tremendous vision and skills. Beckenbauer was a first class defender and midfielder player with super coolness at all times. He simply strolled through a game and marshalled his forces superbly. He carried this attitude as a winning manager of the National side. Maradona is, in all probability, finished as a top class player. Nevertheless, a great player of vision and skill with the ability to lift a team singlehandedly to greater heights. A petulant, spoiled little player, full of his own importance as he strutted about his business.

They each had their own charisma, their own character and are each great in their own way. Above all, Pele and Beckenbauer are gentlemen, and in my book this ties them for the title of greatest player.

If this last World Cup produces a like player, he must be a sleeper for none showed themselves.

The King is dead! Long live the King!

The 1990 World Cup is over, thank goodness. An extremely poor advert for soccer, for exciting, attacking soccer. There was none. We had a more exciting game at Cedarvale last week than all the Cup games put together! The next four years had better produce a better article of quality. Individual players from all countries, except U.K., exhibited many wonderful first touch controls and that was all I could become enthused over, together with some excellent goalkeeping.

Right now there is a dispute as to whether or not the US television big boys will continue to bid for the 1994 games. Lack of advertising time and poor ratings are the major reasons for the possible pulling out. Apparently, West Germany have let slip that they will be willing to host in 1994. We shall see.

Crown and Anchor came to town for the second week in succession. For the second week in a row the team ended up with ten players as another ejection was handed down. The team fought off the handicap and left with a tie - 2-2 with Mariners. This was Mariners' first point of the season and Crown's first loss of point. Even before the late second half ejection Mariners gave their best display in a long time and were a trifle unfortunate not to win. A factor to bear in mind is that all four goals were defensive blunders.

Villa lost a player with ejection against United at Meadowglen and lost only by one goal, a creditable result in the circumstances. Stingers tied at Brampton and Eagles tied at Streetsville, I understand. No results were made known. Am not certain but I believe Crown, Meteor, Stingers and Trexcon are in the knock-out tourney with Crown and Meteor definitely in the semi-finals.

The lights at Alcott failed to operate last Monday as the ladies of CRSC led visiting Milton 1-0 at the half in a well played game. Karen Lewis and Doreen Bergsma showing up well. Milton are one of the top, if not the top, team at the moment as the ladies play for points and standings leading to the playoffs.

Over the next three or four years as you drive past the junctions of the 401 and 410 you will see a building complex growing. This is the site of a new soccer stadium and surrounding fields. The idea of a stadium came from an old acquaintance from the Dixie soccer club, Maurice Driscoll. Sadly, Maurice died some time before the project moved off the ground. His idea and plan were taken over by the six youth soccer clubs in Mississauga and is well on the way.

The plan calls for a stadium centre field with four outside fields, all natural grass. Seating for 5000 to 8000 initially, a press box, TV facilities, floodlights, concessions and lots of parking and picnic areas are included. There are offices and a Soccer Hall of Fame in the plan. Mississauga Town Council donated the land and the clubs have a volunteer group raising funds. The first phase is scheduled for completion in the fall of 1992.

The six clubs, also supported by PHSA, are Clarkson-Sheridan, Dixie, Erin Mills, Malton, Mississauga and Streetsville-Meadowvale.

The Centre committee are publishing a new soccer newspaper, to be issued free, as part of the drive to arouse interest and support.

Another new newspaper is published, from the Scarborough area, called Sporting Scene and covers all sports. Soccer played a huge part in producing the paper. Both of these publications are welcome additions to publishing the sport as by and large the major media ignore. Thank goodness for the support of local newspapers.
