BUSCH GARDENS.

TAMPA BAY, FLORIDA

By JEANETTE COX

A 300-acre family entertainment center, Busch Gardens Tampa features thrill rides, live entertainment, animal exhibits, shops, restaurants and games in eight distinctly themed sections which capture the spirit of turn-of-the-century Africa.

Stanleyville, a bustling African village and home of Busch Gardens' newest water adventure, the "Tanganyika Tidal Wave," also features a shopping bazaar, live entertainment in the Stanleyville Theatre and "Stanley Falls," a log flume ride which provides a splashing good time.

Bird Gardens, part of Busch Gardens since its opening in 1959, still boasts rich foliage and now has as many as 2,000 exotic birds. Many of the birds can be seen in the park's "World of Birds" show as well as in "Eagle Canyon," a natural habitat display for golden and American bald eagles, and in an all new walk-through, free-flight aviary which is home to a variety of species. Recently added is an exhibit of koalas, on display with Dama wallabies and rose-breasted cockatoos. Also in the Bird Gardens is Dwarf Village, a children's play area, and the Anheuser-Busch brewery tour and Hospitality House where guests can sample complimentary Anheuser-Busch products.

Serengeti Plain, a 60-acre, natural setting where nearly 500 head of African animals roam in herds across a veldt-like plain. Guests can observe these animals from an air-conditioned monorail, steam locomotive, skyride or promenade. In addition to hippos, giraffes, several varieties of antelope, Nile crocodiles, dromedary camels, flamingos, ostriches and other animals, this area also is reserved as a breeding and survival center for various endangered species, including black rhino and Asian elephants.

Overlooking the picturesque Serengeti Plain, Crown Colony House is a full-service restaurant and hospitality center.

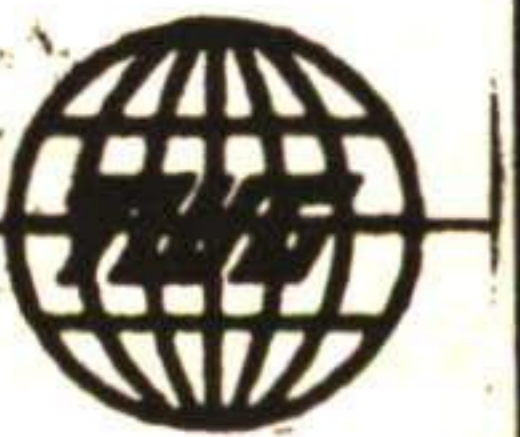

Next week the travel page will continue the tour of Busch Gardens visiting four more areas of the park - Nairobi, Timbuktu, Morocco & the Congo.

Guests may board the mono rail for a spectacular view of the animals roaming free in their natural setting.
