LEN TUITMAN AND STAFF PRESENT GREEN THUMB GARDENING

JUNGLE OF JARGON

Some times the terminology associated with gardening can be a dense jungle of jargon. The following is a short list of common plant terms and their meanings to help you prepare for the upcoming gardening season:

Annual: Refers to the group of plants that grow, flower and then die within a year. In this area we plant them in mid May when all danger of frost is past. Common examples include: Marigolds, Petunias, Alyssum, Impatiens, etc.

Biennial: Similar to the annual plants except these plants require two seasons to complete their lifecycle. They usually flower during the second season. Popular biennials are: Foxglove, Canterbury Bells and Hollyhocks.

Bolt: During the long days of summer some vegetables quickly develop a tall flowering stem. Broccoli and lettuce frequently go through this process of bolting.

Chlorophyll: Is the green substance found in plants. It is important in the conversion of light and other elements into a food source for the plant.

Chlorosis: A yellowing of normally green leaves. This can occur because of a nutritional imbalance or the development of a disease.

Cotyledon: Is the first green leaf-like structures that form after a seed germinates and starts to grow. These are not true leaves.

Dormancy: A state of suspended inactivity. Seeds and outdoor plants in the winter are in this low activity period.

Hardening Off: A process to move plants from an indoor location to a harsher environment outside for the summer. Over a period of two weeks the plants are set outside during the day and brought back indoors at night. When all danger of frost is past the plants can be put in the ground.

Node: A small area on a plants stem that is slightly swollen. This is where leaves, branches and some flowers originate.

Each week Christine Cole of Tuitman's Garden Centre and Landscaping, Highway 25, 1 mile south of Acton, 853-2480, will be presenting helpful tips and information to assist you in creating your garden showplace!

After the Hallmark store in the Georgetown Marketplace held open house November 17, an edited 12 minute video of the day's activities was submitted to Hallmark to be judged in a competition in which ten stores from across Canada were chosen for their quality open house presentations, receiving a $1000 award. The Georgetown location, independently owned by Nell and Mary Lou

Young was chosen the Best In Canada. The open house included performances by the GDHS Choir and Drama Club and musical accompaniment by Haydn Evans. Mary Lou Young (left) and store manager Debbie Klimmer accepted the award from Randy Wyrozus of Hallmark cards.
