Under 10 Selects

June 22 was the first day of the Robbie Tournament - an international soccer series of games organized to raise funds for Cystic Fibrosis (CF) and Muscular Dystrophy. This was the 25th year of the tournament, which was named after a boy called Robbie who had CF.

The Atom Under-10 girls sent a select team drawn from the regular teams. At the mini-soccer level (seven-a-side) play is non competitive and the players play for the fun and excitement of meeting other soccer players from across Metro region. They all receive a Robbie crest for participating.

The tournament was well organized with each team playing three games. There were 16 teams playing on eight well kept fields with clear white lines on an area about four times the size of Cedarvale. The games started on time under the tutelage of teenage referees who all wore official referee outfits.

Teams sported a wide variety of colorful shirts which included blue with yellow lightning bolts, red and white stripes in all directions, pink and maroon diamonds in addition to bright yellow goalie shirts. Some little ones (Under-Eights) were carried off the fields by the coaches here and there as the grass was slippery. There were co-educational teams and it was interesting to see the ponytails of both sexes swinging with the plays.

The Georgetown team represented us well with cooperative, clean, sportsmanlike play, gentle coaching and positive parental spectator support.

In the first game, the West Rouge team in green and gold colors played bravely but three terrific runs at their goalnet by Annie Schaeffer yielded a score of 3-0 for our Blue Select team.

The second game was versus a fast Milton girls team. Their red players challenged the playing skills of our team. Our side needed more playing time together to outguess the passes of the Milton girls who played well and with finesse. The final score was only 1-0 for them as a result of great goaltending by our goalies, Erin Shillington, Janine Taylor and Loren Boyce.

The emphasis in this meet was on skill, exercise and fun as a family outing. These goals were sorely challenged in the third game by the Scarborough United girls who believed in aggression. No one was hurt, in the close man-on-man playing. Every Blue Select became a forward in the last few minutes as a good coaching play, and Charlene Roche kicked the ball in before the final whistle. Our Selects in this last minute of play had kept the shoving players to a tie of 1-1.

In general, the sportmanship of the games was demonstrated by shaking hands both before and after the game with the referees and coaches shaking hands too. There were coaches on other teams who forgot that these players were children and were using bullhorns and harsh comments.

The children, though, enjoyed having their faces painted in team colors, rolling down the hills between games, kicking the balls around among themselves and having extra treats during the day.

The Georgetown players were Allison Barclay, Loren Boyce, Rachel Bryan-Maloney, Bethan Elliott, Faith Malinoski, Charlene Roche, Annie Schaeffer, Erin Shillington, Janine Taylor, and Alyssa Taylor. All players received equal playing time of four half-times out of the six games due to good coaching practices by Rob Taylor assisted by his sons Ryan and Kevin Taylor.

Thank you to parents for transporting the team and to the Georgetown Youth Soccer Club for paying the admission fee for a worthwhile charity.

Under-10

The sun has taken its toll on the soccer pitch and the brown grass that the girls are now playing on is slippery. There have been a few scrapes and slides on the "almost dirt." Nevertheless, the girls are willing players now that school is out.

The Dutch Nurseries Blue Sharks played to a 1-1 tie with the Golden Bullets Millieres TV team. The Blues scored first with Jenny Culbert in the third quarter and the yellow team tied it up in the fourth quarter. Yellow goal scorer name not available at press time.

Despite the heat, Alana Zelek covered every inch of the field for the Blues with help from Melissa Maveal and Jenny Culbert. Tyrenny Anderson, Jacque Bajic and Becky Sinnaeve played well for the Golden Bullets. The refereeing was efficiently handled by Cason Buikema.

The Green Hornets faced the Municipal Trust Purple team. It was too hot for goalie brown sweaters so yellow pinafores were a wise substitute.

Janine Taylor slid a curved ball into the edge of the Purple net in the first quarter for a score of 1-0. This became the final score as well, since both teams managed to defend their goals with long kicks such as those by Jennifer Westman and Alison Hawes for the Purples. Sarah Williams made a good stop with her stomach on a Green Hornet goalie kick.

Sharilyn Kogan and Angela Sykes were noteworthy for the Municipal Trust Purples. The Green Hornets had noteworthy players in Loren Boyce and Erin Longworth as well as goal scorer Janine Taylor.

The second game of the Thursday night double header was Team #5 versus the Tim Horton Donuts Red Devils. (Team #5 - Your uniforms have arrived). Katie McIlveen and Charlene Roche both got a goal for the Red Devils for a final score of 2-0. The players cited for playing really well for the Red Tim Horton Donuts Devils were Tara Rafferty, Shaylyn Rypstra and Kerri Nielsen.

Their opponents had only one spare player and Coach Crane stated that the whole team played well in this game despite the heat. Henry Anderson did an excellent job refereeing for both games, with clear whistles for definitive throw-ins.

JUNE 25
Halton Credit Union A's 8
Jim & Pat Akers Countrywide Tigers 10

Tigers extended their winning streak to six games on a last-inning blowout. In the first, Tigers' Jason Jack stole two bases to achieve scoring position, but wound up stranded as the inning ended scoreless. Despite Brian Lipp's home run in the second, A's came out in the driver's seat thanks to Ryan Gledhill's two RBI double. By the end of the fourth, another Gledhill double had advanced A's to an 8-4 advantage. Tigers' offence was stalled by Jamie Larocque's quick relays to second for a pair of outs, and by hard-digging Warren Anderson who hauled a potential homer back into play to stop the batter at second. In his two innings, hurler Mike Madill limited Tigers to two runs. The final two innings found A's unable to increase the lead while Tigers counted one more to set the stage for a five-run sixth, where Adam Szlachta produced the game-winning double.

Blake Leavitt Expos 6
J.V. Clothing Blue Jays 8
Jays teamed pitching by Topher Baker, Paul Larocque, and Andrew Peden with a Larocque-David Zeni double play to support hitting by Baker, Peden, and Justin Hunt. Owen Blake's bases-loaded walk, which brought in a runner, and Jeff Meinen's throws to Rob May on second and Simon Ford on third for base outs, led the Expos' solid opposition. Determined to recover from last week's loss, Jays banged in eight while Expos could manage only six.

Beaver Lumber Mets 13
George & Dragon Yankees 12
Home runs by Andre Garneau, Kris Noonan, and Gerrard Purcell led Yankees' strongest outing to date: a 12-run attempt to crack their recent losing streak. Despite catches by Trevor Cash and Adam Scuralli, Mets came out one run better, taking the match 13-12.

JUNE 27
Blake Leavitt Expos 6
George & Dragon Yankees 14
Yanks were seeking revenge for Tuesday's loss and hit pay dirt. Expo RBIs by Adam Stoyles, Matt Walker (2), and Dan Whitton (2) along with a Jeff Meinen home run challenged the Yankees defence, led by Gerrard Purcell, Trevor Cash, and Paul DiMarco - who nipped two runners in the bud at first. The hungry Yankees came out flailing, typified by Cory Constant's bases-loaded double, to harass Expos' pitching staff of Ed Alcorn, Rob May, Joel Springer, Adam Stoyles and Matt Walker with 14 runs. Yankees got their win, while Expos came up empty for the week.

Jim & Pat Akers Countrywide Tigers 7
Mike Reed Angels 6

Angels faced a voracious pack of Tigers looking for a seventh consecutive win. Batting by Matt Rutherford (two home runs, four RBIs), David Leverette (two RBIs), and Brian Lipp (one RBI) wouldn't have done it without Jason Jack's six stolen bases in the final two frames. Tigers also hustled in the field: Rutherford snatched two fly balls, Trevor Laforet lined up a bases-loaded force to limit Angels to a one-run inning, and Leverette's terminating play in the bottom of the seventh let the still-scrambling Tigers walk off one run ahead.

Halton Credit Union A's 3
J.V. Clothing Blue Jays 13
Jays wrapped up a week of retaliation by hammering A's 13-3. Pitcher Richard Cunningham closed off the Jays' attack in the first two innings while Craig Anderson's single in the second drove in A's two run advantage. In the third, the evening took a nasty turn for the A's. Topher Baker opened Jays' assault with a grand slam and later held off the comeback bid with twin throws to first-base outs. Matt McMullen and David Zeni both contributed to second base outs, Zeni tagging out a trapped runner. Meanwhile, Al Gilmour, Dylan Lee and Ian Murphy drove in additional runs. A's managed one more in the fifth, but Jays just kept hitting towards the 13-3 final.

Swinging Fore... "DEAD-SOLID, PERFECT!" With SHELLEY WOOLNER BSGC Head Pro

1. INTRODUCTION

Each and every one of us, sometime throughout our golf life can recall the one shot that felt... Dead-Solid, Perfect! The swing was effortless, the timing was smooth and the contact felt like a hot knife cutting through butter. After taking a deep sigh and hanging on to that delightful moment, you quickly change the tone by asking, "Why can't I do that everytime?"

As an instructor, my responsibility to you is knowledge. Practice and focussed concentration is your responsibility. Throughout the next few weeks I will share with you the knowledge necessary for you to experience more consistent results which will ultimately allow you to play to your potential. But be careful! How you interpret and practise

"square," with the same loft, the correct lie and to a depth where the bottom of the ball is struck instead of the top!

Eighteen years ago when I was a beginner, I only wish that someone had explained to me that the ball comes off the clubface at 90 degrees every time. I know that my own swing would have developed differently. As shown in the photograph, the lines on the clubface must be returned to the target line at right angles with the "sweet spot" (or centre of the clubface) looking down the target line. Sounds simple enough, but there are interferences that certainly make this easy task almost impossible.

Therefore, the next few weeks will be devoted to explaining how grip, balance, stance, posture, swing-plane, plus many more components all affect your ability to swing the club with a consistent swing motion and achieving that feeling of "Dead-Solid, Perfect" more often.

Remember, we shouldn't be attempting to make the good shots better... we should be trying to make the unacceptable ones... "Dead-Solid, Perfect!"
