

Antique tractors on display in Milton

It's full steam ahead for the annual Great Canadian Antique Tractor Field Days at the Ontario Agricultural Museum, Saturday, July 20 and Sunday, July 21, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The event features one of the largest groupings of operating steam engines in Ontario, with up to ten steam engines puffing out steam and tooting whistles. The action will also include a parade and display of over 30 antique tractors and 50 antique gasoline engines, all made in Canada before 1960.

A special guest at this year's event will be well-known British vintage tractor photographer, Andrew Morland. Morland, whose work has been published in such books as "Classic American Farm Tractors" and "Great Tractors," will be on hand to sign his books each day from noon until 1:30 p.m.

The museum invites 4-H Tractor Clubs to take part in the "4-H Tractor Quiz" as part of 4-H Achievement Days.

Activities continue with a working saw mill and shingle mill, powered by vintage Canadian engines. Visitors will have the opportunity to view an old-fashioned "threshing bee." A farm toy display, with collectors from across Ontario, shows the toys of yesteryear and today. For those with a competitive edge, there will be log-sawing, nail-driving and bag-tying competitions. And there will be a salute to the 100th anniversary of the Massey-Harris amalgamation.

With over 30 buildings on 32 hectares of Niagara Escarpment scenery, the museum offers a living look into Ontario's rural days through costumed interpreters, farming projects, farm animals and tractor drawn transportation.

Open daily 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., the museum can be reached by taking Highway 401 at either exit 312 or 320, then follow the signs.

Rural Ontario's mechanical past is yours to discover July 20 and 21 at the Ontario Agricultural Museum.

Terminator 2 packs a wallop

Undeniably the most explosive thrill ride you'll ever take, Terminator 2: Judgment Day delivers a walloping punch to the senses that'll leave you reeling.

Yes, Arnold's back - bigger and better - and nobody can stop it. Not only will Terminator 2 blow to smithereens this summer's competition, but Schwarzenegger will be bronzed as the world's number one box-office draw. He can't possibly become any bigger after this film.

Terminator 2 is a very worthy sequel to the original sci-fi classic from 1984, this time with Arnold as the good guy. He's a Terminator T-800 series cyborg sent back in time to prevent future mankind's only savior from being killed. The evil nemesis is a more advanced Terminator (Robert Patrick), a T-1000 model programmed to destroy 10 year old John Conner (Edward Furlong).

It seems that after a computer instigated nuclear holocaust in 1997, earth's few survivors are forced to battle computer-created killing machines bent on destroying the remaining humans. The leader of the resistance is the adult John Conner.

Hollywood Beat

By DAVID GIAMMARCO

So together with the young John Conner and his mother Sarah (Linda Hamilton), Terminator Arnold battles the superior cyborg as well as the future designer of the independent-thinking computers in order to prevent man's imminent annihilation.

On record as the most expensive film to date (approx. $100 million), every dime spent on Terminator 2 is up there on the screen. The special effects are more than phenomenal, they're mind-boggling. The enemy Terminator can transform his liquid metal mass into vicious weaponry and can replicate any human form, and the audience is left gasping at what they're witnessing on screen. It's definitely the pinnacle of movie magic.

High praise goes to writer/director James Cameron

(Aliens, The Abyss), who also helmed the first Terminator and pulled off this mammoth follow-up with integrity and style. He grabs audience interest from minute one and doesn't let go until it's all over - no mean feat when you consider only 50 per cent of the film are the dazzling special effects. Which of course means that yes, Arnold is now captivating audiences with his acting. Wow, I never thought I'd hear myself say that.

Out of ten, Terminator 2: Judgment Day rates a ten.

Come see the clowns at the Circus of Color summer carnival put on the Recreation and Parks Department, July 17, 7-9 p.m. at the Acton Community Centre. It will be a nickel carnival with all the participants from the Rec Department's various day camps in the area.
