The key is understanding God and His motives

more than anything else is that we glorify Him. 1 He teaches us throughout the Bible that the quent prior to His return. 3 While focus of our attention must be toward Him. If we have "the mind of Christ Jesus" 2 we will not always need a direct word from Him, but will want to glorify Him because we can see what He is trying to accomplish in our world.

To understand God is to understand His motives. We might ask, "Why does God allow wars, earthquakes, and famines?" It is obvious He has included

The one thing that God desires them in the plan for the ages because Jesus predicted they would become even more frewe cannot play God or understand everything about Him, we do know God allows such catastrophes to take place when unbelieving man recognizes a power greater than his own. Only when human resources fail, we turn to

The lesson that man must humble himself before God is taught over and over again throughout the Bible. Time after time, when the children of Israel failed to glorify their God, they ended up in trouble. Many times God raised up a foreign invader to war against them when they began to worship the gods of other nations. Each time they repented, got rid of the foreign gods, and worshiped their own God, victory was theirs. 4

Job, who had suffered much, said, "The reverential and worshipful fear of the Lord - that is Wisdom." 5 He had learned not to blame God for his misfortunes, but to respect God's wisdom. When God reminded Job that He and He only had created the world and everything in it, and that He alone had power over life and death, Job finally admitted there was much about God he didn't understand. 6

Those of us who have had a kind father who disciplined us when we erred have no trouble feeling a reverential fear of the Lord. When our father spoke, we knew that he meant it, and we respected his authority. Those who have rebelled against unjust parental authority often rebel against their heavenly Father's authority. Such people need human love before they can understand God's love and feel comfortable in His presence.

It has been said there are no atheists in foxholes, and neither are there atheists when a violent earthquake shakes the very earth under us. At such times, we realize that our Father in heaven is the only one who can help us, and we willingly fall on our knees and let Him be God!

Palmer responds to letter

Letter to the Editor:

I am responding to Mr. Yorke's letter re my column "Hope for Tomorrow." You believe, Mr. Yorke, that I am anti-Semitic because on July 20 I stated "the very reason His own people crucified Him (Jesus) was because He claimed to be the Son of God (Jn. 19:7) and King of the Jews (Jn. 19:21). I agree that the Romans carried out the actual crucifixion, but the charge against Him and Demand for His death was from His own people (Jn. 18:29:40). Roman Catholics and Protestants both believe what the Bible says about this, but feel no antagonism whatever toward the Jew. In fact, Christians around the world strongly support the Jews today because of our common heritage, and because Jesus asks us to live and forgive everyone.

You asked about my qualifications for my beliefs. I hold a Bachelor of Arts degree from Wilfred Laurier University with a major in Religious Knowledge. I taught Sunday School for over 25 years and High School for 17 years. My greatest qualification is, however, a call from God on May 6, 1985, to "Comfort ye, comfort ye, My people." The comfort I have received in the many traumatic situations in my own life is the comfort I seek to pass on to others through my column published since 1986, and for which I ask no remuneration. It is to people like you, Mr. Yorke, to whom my column is directed, to those who have never heard the Good News that Jesus Christ loves them and ask only that they accept Him as their Lord!

Mrs. Tom (Jane) McMeekin.

John was a quiet man, well liked by all, and would never speak his mind, unless he had something good to say. Being brought up by his Gramma McMeekin, you could see how his character was moulded in those early childhood years. He worked for several oil and gas companies as a truck driver and always gave an honest day's work for any job he took on.

Friends were received at the J.S. Jones and Son Funeral Home, Georgetown on Sunday, August 18, 7-9 p.m. where funeral and committal service was held in the chapel on Monday, 2 p.m. Interment was in Hillcrest Cemetery, Norval. In lieu of flowers, contributions to the Canadian Cancer Society would be appreciated.
