Ten years of art at Gallery featured in special exhibition

Ten years of Cultural Centre history will be on display at the Gallery, October 2 to December 1.

An exhibition will honor some of the visual artists that have made the Gallery of the Cultural Centre such an interesting and challenging place to come to, says coordinator John Sommer.

The event is to mark the 10th anniversary of the Halton Hills Cultural Centre.

The original idea for this exhibition was to contact all the artists who had solo exhibitions at the Centre since the fall of 1981 and to select one art work from each of them. Some of the artists however had moved and could not be found. Instead, several artists who had two or three person shows were contacted to round out the exhibition.

A work by the very first Gallery exhibitor, Marjorie Nazer is included. Other artists are: Robert Bateman, Less Batten, Carole Black, Frank C. Black, Claudette Boulanger, Charlotte Brainerd, Shirley Brambley, Wendy Buykes-Thorn, James Collis, J.R. Colter, Ken Danby, Gretchen Hamilton Day, Andries De Boer, Beverley Didur, Andreas Drenters, Linda Donais, Reginald Finlayson, Michael Fuhrmann, Ruth Gibson, Tom Gibson, Janice Gittings, John A. Hall, Barbara Howard, Monica Johnston, Peter Jones, Mark Kalous, Verna Linney, Terry McDonald, Tony Meers, Carol-Ann Michaelson, Valery Mokrytzki, Harald J. Newman, Jack Reid, Penny Ridley, and Jo Walterson.

The exhibition will be officially opened on October 2, 7-9 p.m., by Mayor of Halton Hills, Russ Miller and the Town's 1981 mayor, Pete Pomeroy, now Region chairman.

The Cultural Centre invites everyone to come to the October 2 opening to meet the artists and enjoy their creations.

Oakville Symphony taking patrons 'Round the World'

A great hit in both its appearances in Halton Hills, the Oakville Symphony Orchestra has unveiled plans for its 1991-92 concert season.

All season subscribers have an opportunity to win return fare for two aboard an Air Canada flight to Europe. But you can see — and hear — the world right in the comfort of the Oakville Centre for the Performing Arts, where the concerts are held.

Music from five countries will be featured in the Symphony's "Round the World Tour" season beginning with "Viva Espagne" Oct. 19 and 20. Guitarist Rachel Gauk performs the famous Rodrigo Concerto.

"American Holiday" Nov. 23 and 24 takes in Aaron Copland, Leonard Bernstein and George Gershwin with special guest Beth Anne Cole.

Piano duo Anagnoson and Kinton and TV's Friendly Giant, Bob Homme, narrating Saint-Saens' "Carnival of Animals," are featured in "Tour de France" Jan. 25 and 26.

Beethoven, Mozart and Brahms will be visited with a "Passport to Germany" March 21 and 22, with internationally renowned pianist Boris Krajny.

Famous tenor Mark DuBois signs on May 23 and 24 for Gilbert and Sullivan excerpts in "Jolly Olde England."

Performances are Saturday evenings ($74 per adult for the season, $67 for seniors and students) and Sunday afternoons ($57 and $51).

Call 842-2555 for tickets.

Achievement awards

Arts Alive has announced the winners of the first Arts Achievement Awards.

John Sommer has won the Ralph Ussel Award for volunteerism in the arts community. Paul Brisley has been selected for the Kenneth R. Harrison Award for working with youth in arts.

Ron Hunt receives the Arts Alive Award for performing Arts and Frank and Fran Anthony win the Arts Alive Award for visual arts.

The Arts Achievement Awards, sponsored jointly by Arts Alive and Halton Hills Herald, will be given to worthy recipients every five years.

The 1991 awards will be presented October 18. Each winner will be given an award signifying their achievement, plus a plaque will be placed in the Cultural Centre foyer to honor the winners.

Art Festival October 5

Members of the Palette and Pencil Club, an association of enthusiastic Halton Hills area artists, is busily preparing its annual Autumn Art Festival, to be held at St. George's Church Hall in Georgetown Oct. 5 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Old and new friends are welcome, and admission is free.

In addition to a wide variety of paintings in watercolors, oils and acrylics on view, there will be guest artists Mary-Ann and Lindy Martin showing their pottery.

An additional attraction will be a preview of the mural entitled "December is..." This interesting work combines the talents of a dozen or so artists, and was created as one of four prizes being offered at the Credit Valley Artisans' Christmas Fair, coming up at the Cedarvale-Park Cottage Nov. 16.
