Rivals chewed up by Black Machines

By WENDI GOODHEW
Star Fuels Black Machines 4
Milton 0

Coaches and top gun mechanics Krause, Doc Richardson and Vandervalk were pleased with their Black Machines when they cruised over Milton 4-0 last Monday night in Milton.

Q Ball Chris Hall earned himself a shutout for his excellent efforts in net. He locked the doors and threw away the key to Georgetown's net. This kid is tough to beat between the bars.

Eager Beaver Ryan Smith revved into high gear and turned the scoreboard first to start Georgetown off, and later added the finishing touch when he beat Milton's goal again. Rocket Ryan Booth and Daryl Sittler Ashbee picked up the assists on Ryan's goals, and showed some good steady hustle.

Dan the Man Cabral proved that even with a guy on him, he's no quitter when Moose Joey Goodhew carried the puck in for a shot, then picked up his own rebound passing it over to Dan who spun in by the tough Milton goaltender. Dan the Man also assisted on another Georgetown goal.

Birdman Judd Richardson has had his wheels spinning this year and for his great efforts he too beat Milton's goalie with a good heads-up shot. Maddog Mike Maddill and Atomic Adam Bowman had their engines running in high gear too covering their man and digging hard along the boards. When Mighty Mike Krause and Heavy Chevy Robert McLeod are on the ice things happen. These two play an intense game and tested Milton's goalie often.

Defence Grizzly Jeff Bahr and Cruising Ian Cartwright threw on the red lights stopping many Milton players at the blueline, this pair doesn't take kindly to any Sunday drivers hanging around their net. Demolition Dave Markham and Moose Joey Goodhew ticketed any Milton player who tried to park in front of our net sending many frustrated Milton guys back to their end to pay the price.

The Black Machines meet Burlington Sunday at the Alcott, which should be a good game as Georgetown's revved and ready for a fun competitive year.

P.S. A late birthday wish to #12 Mighty Mike Krause and Jim Hall, please sit down, Chris has the puck!

Burlington 4
Georgetown 0

Coaches Krause, Doc Richardson and Vandervalk iced their Black Machines against a strong Burlington team Sunday in Georgetown.

Q Ball Chris Hall had a tough job when Burlington kept coming, firing many hard shots and charging him. Q Ball made some great saves and stood up tall in net even when jabbed in the neck.

Rocket Ryan Booth and Daryl Sittler Ashbee ran on all eight cylinders just missing on a couple of good shots. Dan the Man Cabral and Eager Beaver Ryan Smith skated through a tough obstacle course only to find a tough Burlington goalie ready and waiting at the end. Heavy Chevy Robert McLeod and Birdman Judd Richardson found Burlington was all over them making it hard to get a hard shot away. Maddog Mike Maddill and Mighty Mike Krause did some great back checking and they too had a couple of just misses.

The defencemen Grizzly Jeff Bahr, Demolition Dave Markham, Moose Joey Goodhew and Cruising Ian Cartwright had their work cut out for them guarding Georgetown's end and keeping some aggressive Burlington players away from our goalie.

It was a 1-0 hockey game at the end of the second period and with Burlington being a strong skating and aggressive team the Black Machines seemed to run out of gas, but Burlington still didn't get their win easily.

With a few more practice laps and a couple of more games under their belts the Star Fuel Black Machines will be ready to take on Burlington later in the season and even the score.

Minor Bantams cruise to win in season opener with Ching

"Good evening hockey fans from across Canada and the United States, this is Foster Hewitt..."

This phrase, made famous years ago, is the definitive hockey intro, so what better way to let everyone know that the Hurricanes are back!

This year's version of Halton's Hurricane Minor Bantams have not one sponsor, but five! Yes, I did say five! In random order they are: Bob's Auto, Flamboro Pumps, Beverly Hills Aluminum, C.W.T. and Credit Control Systems. Now I hope I didn't miss anybody!

Starring for Team Halton: Bob Wilson of Orangeville; Tyson Briden of Erin; Sandy Davidson, Tim Diardichuk, Georgetown; Robin Crawford, Jonathan Kruser, Ted Roop, Cameron Warden of Flamboro; Scott Bertoli, Jeff Haydar, Trevor Kuhn, Daryl Loader, Iain MacIntosh, Mark McPhail, Fabio Pento and Kevin Wilson from Milton. The coaching staff, Peter Budell, assistant coaches Bert Bertoli and Tom Davidson, manager Barbara MacIntosh. If I have missed anyone, please call 1-800-285-7448 and now back to our game.

Opening night last Friday against Chinguacousy: Final score, Halton 4 - Ching 2. It was a night of tip-ins as three out of four were scored by this method. The opening goal scored by Scott Bertoli on a wraparound, unassisted. Robin Crawford connected with Jon Kruser's pass to make it 2-0.

Ching scored two goals, with Halton at least two men short in quick succession. However, defenceman Tim Diardichuk cheating in from the blueline tipped in a Scott Bertoli pass. Jeff Haydar got the insurance marker by laying out a perfect centering pass. The Ching defence knew that they couldn't score another on Halton, quickly shot it in his own net!

Goalie Kevin Wilson put in a solid effort going the distance. This concludes our broadcast for this evening!

Major Atoms showing signs of improvement

The Halton Hurricanes AAA major atom rep hockey team had a tough two outings against rival Chinguacousy in recent action, dropping both contests. But in the second game, Halton showed improvement. They lost the first 4-0 but were only edged in the second 3-2.

In the opener Halton, sponsored by Milton's Nadalin Electric, played well in various respects but failed to capitalize on many of their scoring chances. Ching had a much larger blueline corps and good goaltending.

B.J. Forsyth was in goal for Halton and, according to team management, may have had the first game jitters after graduating to the triple A level.

Halton turned in a much more exciting effort the next day at Memorial Arena in Milton with the close defeat.

Adam Drouer and Jamie O'Neil scored for Halton. O'Neil and John Nadalin picked up assists.

Cory Leigh appeared to score another goal for Halton, but it wasn't counted. According to Halton team officials the puck broke the goal plane but the Ching netminder made a glove grab and hauled it back before the referee saw it.

Halton pressed hard for the equalizer late in the game but couldn't manage it.

Jamie Van De Spynner was in net for Halton and showed well.
