

Georgetown Creamery Truck

Main Street, Georgetown - The McGibbon Hotel in the forefront. The Town Hall and the United Church, both on Guelph Street, in the background. Note the stagecoach.

Barber Paper Mills. Built in 1854. Operated up to 1948. Made paper from wood pulp and recycled paper - books and magazines brought in by train. This was the first industrial complex in Canada to generate and use its own hydro-electric power. The dynamo ruins are still visible - look down on the river from Armstrong Ave. at the foot of Sinclair Ave. The paper mill buildings are presently empty. Years of neglect and repeated vandalism may bring the end to this unique historic site.
