Not long ago the Georgetown Choral Society had a recipe for success printed in the Independent. It basically described how the culmination of hard work, practice and enthusiasm by our conductor and choir members are key ingredients

Benefit for Literacy Guild

Beat the winter blahs while supporting the work of the North Halton Literacy Guild.

A benefit performance of the Georgetown Little Theatre's production of the delightful comedy, Best of Friends, will take place on Thursday, April 2 at the John Elliott Theatre in the Halton Hills Cultural Centre.

Tickets are $10 per person and curtain time is 8 p.m.

The North Halton Literacy Guild will use the funds raised from the play to buy a variety of reading materials and audio-visual resources so that our volunteer tutors can work even more effectively with the one in five adults in our community who cannot read.

Tickets are available for the April 2 performance by phoning 873-2200 or 877-4054.

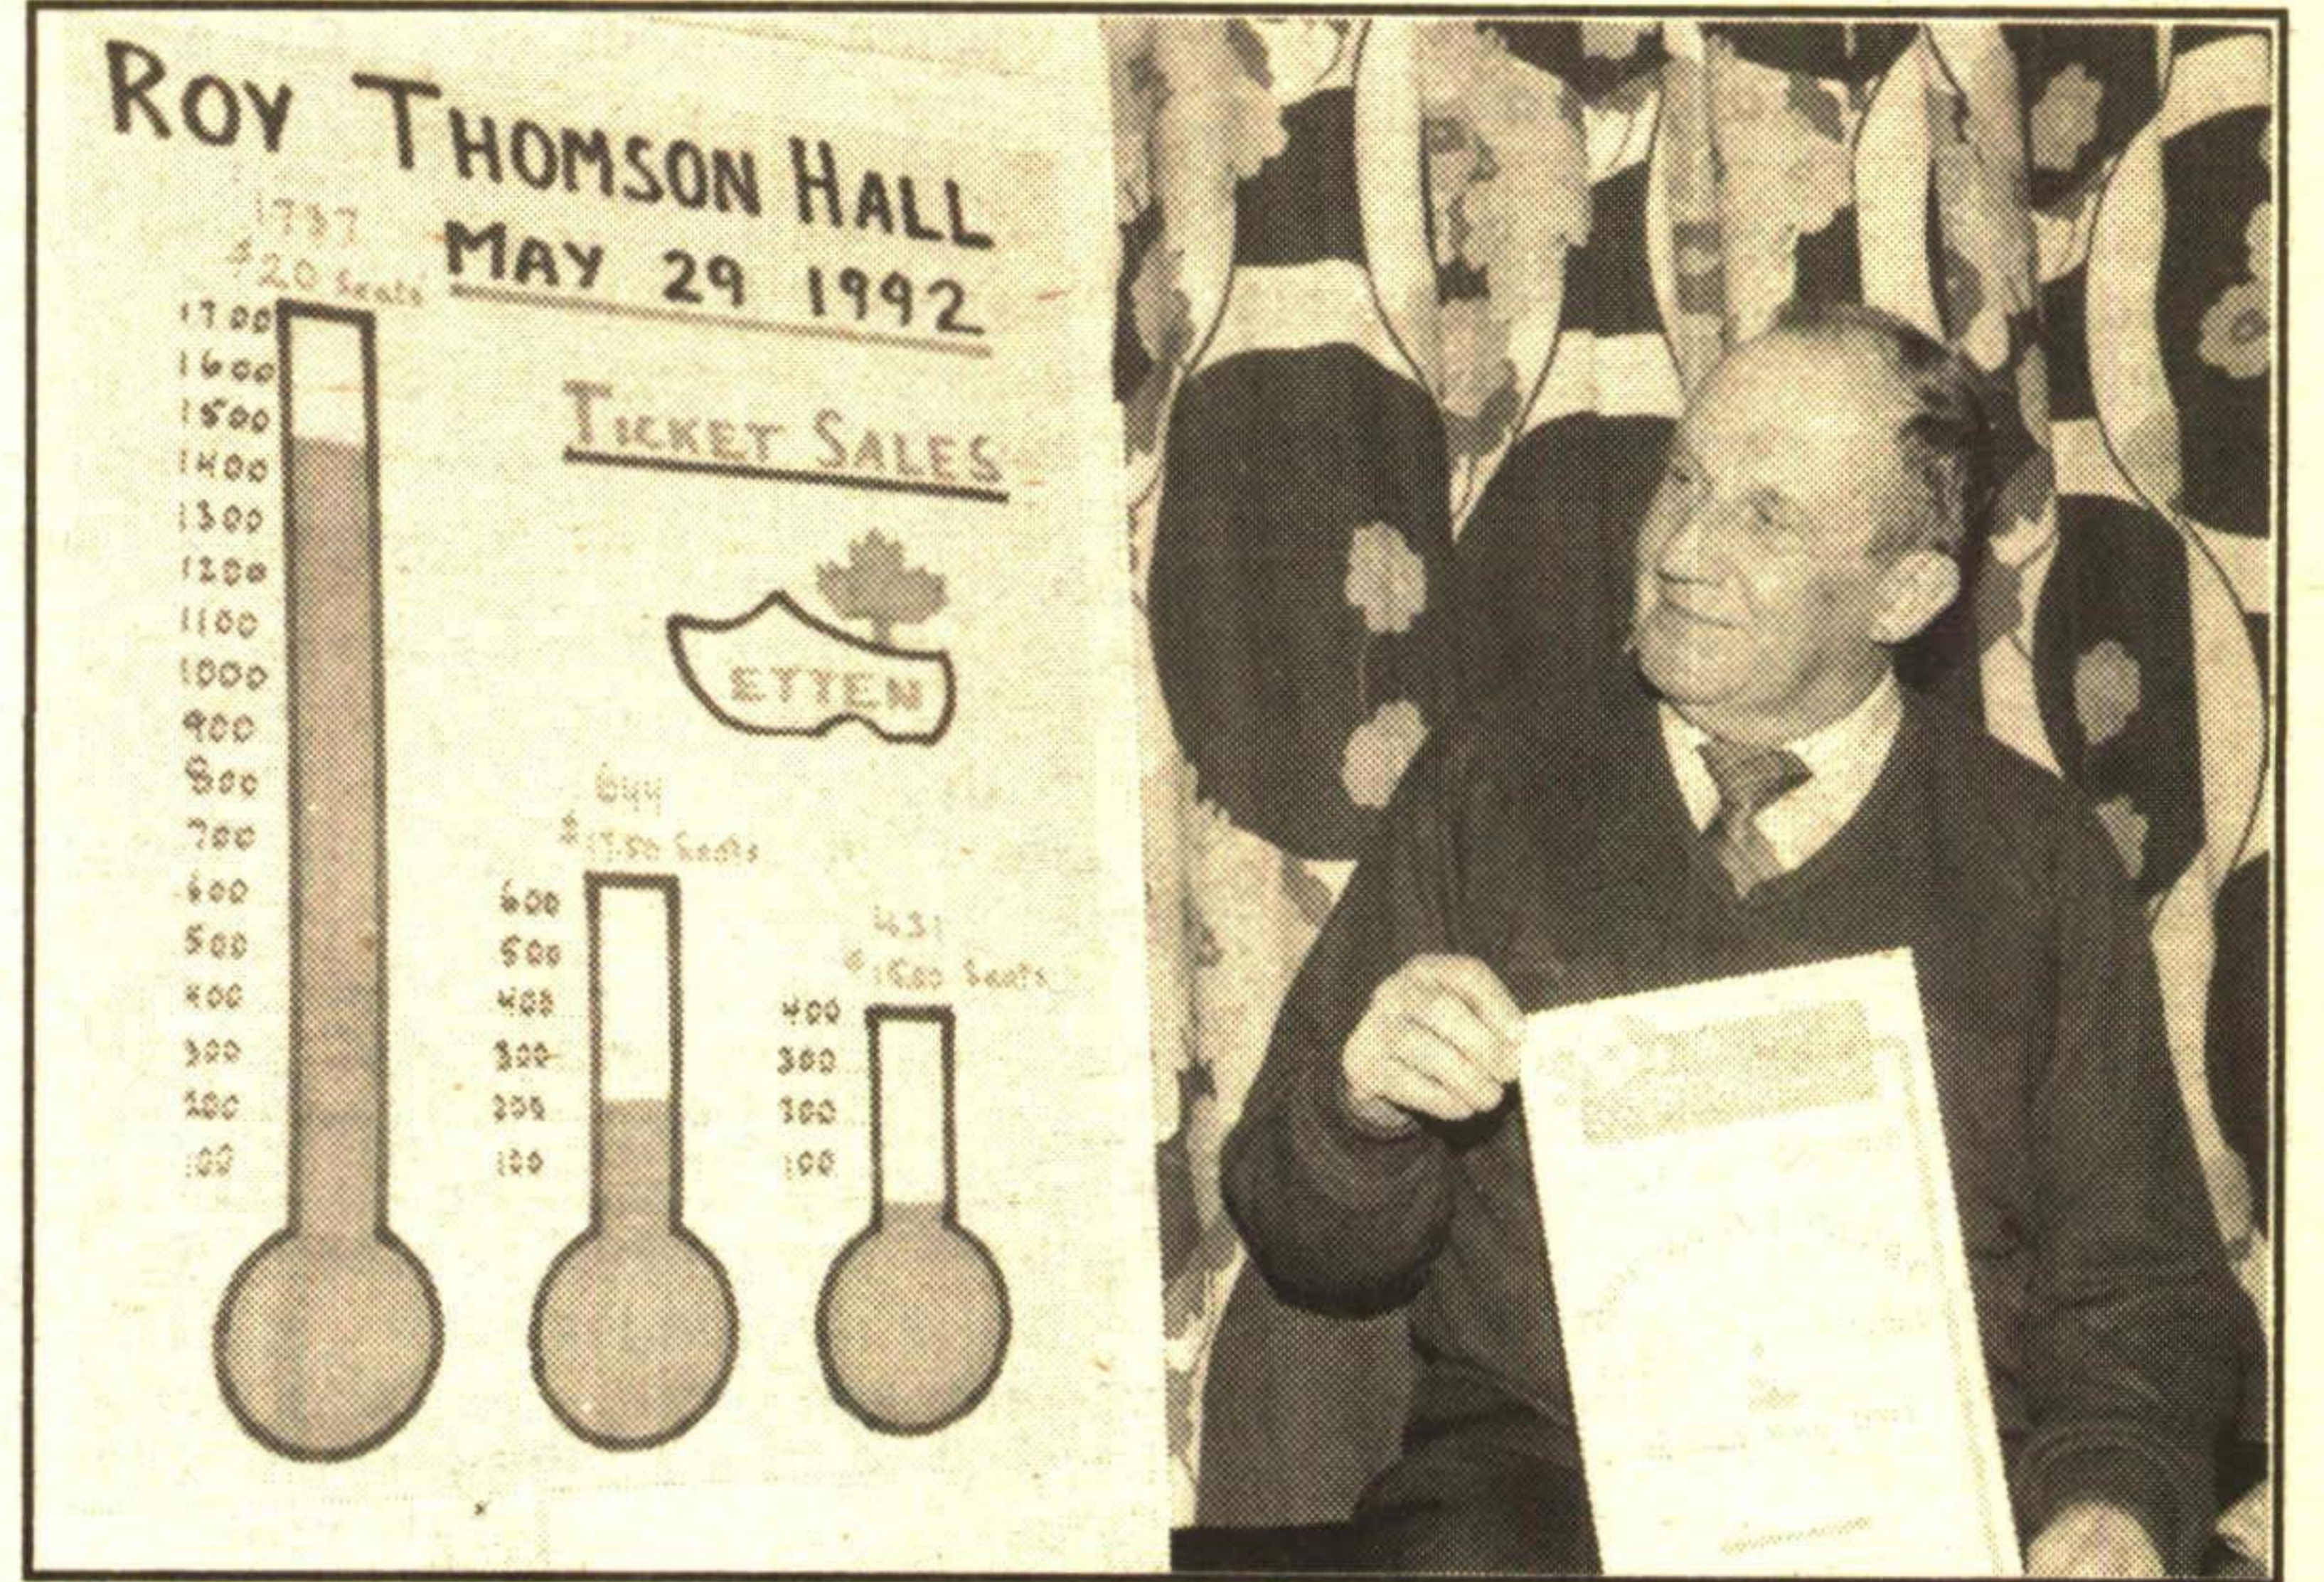

to a successful performance.

Well, it seems that choir members are just as enthusiastic about selling as they are about singing. As of Monday, March 23 the combined efforts of the Georgetown and Achill choirs have successfully sold 2,200 of the 2,620 available seats at Roy Thomson Hall for their performance with guests the Etten Mannenkoor on May 29. Wow!

In a much earlier interview with choir director Dale Wood I asked, "What would make this concert terrific?" I recall the smile on his face as he replied rather quickly, "A sold out performance."

As of now it looks as though it may be just that and we're just reaching the end of March. If you don't have your tickets yet, don't delay. There are still many good seats available from choir members or by contacting Gerry Numan at Allstate Insurance on Guelph St.

The choirs are working very hard on their upcoming performances. Time is slipping by quickly, the music is sounding better and better and anticipation is growing steadily. As Dale Wood said at Monday night's rehearsal, "I'm getting excited about this!"

To those who have already purchased tickets, we thank you.

Although there are many ingredients conducive to the success of this endeavor, your support definitely puts the icing on the cake. Look out Roy Thomson, here we come!
