

Many people waited patiently outside of Woolco's two entrances Wednesday morning for the store to open at 9 a.m. Store manager Barry Comber reports that the store's first day was a busy one. The crowds didn't let up all day, and business has been very steady since.

Business booming

Woolco opens its doors

If opening day is any indication, Woolco should do a booming business at Georgetown Market Place mall.

By 8:45 a.m. Wednesday, Woolco's first day of business in town, a crowd of people were waiting at the new store's main and outside entrances for the doors to open at 9 a.m.

And they just kept coming all day long.

"Our first day went very well," said Barry Comber, the store's general manager. "There were a lot of long lineups, but the people were very considerate and sympathetic. They realized that all of our cashiers (except for a few out-of-town experienced cashiers brought in for opening day) were new."

Some of the customers, most of them with their carts piled to the top, said they waited in line for up to 40 minutes, but they didn't seem to mind. They were very impressed with the new store.

"I think it's great," said Georgetown resident Linda Haddock when asked her opinion of the new store. "Georgetown is long overdue for some competition."

Her mother Catherine Mackenzie of Acton agreed.

"In the past I have had to go to Brampton to do some of my shopping. I don't think I will have to go there as often now."

Marie Brown of Limehouse and Dianne Taylor of Norval spent a lot of time scouring the store for bargains. They were filling their cart with several of the store's grand opening specials.

Georgetown resident Jackie Mannette shopped the store for two hours.

"I think the store is great. They are really competitive with their prices. I think we needed some variety in town. Now that Woolco's here I think I will be doing more comparison shopping."

Comber says the first day of business met their expectations, but added their expectations were pretty high.

Most of the store's 110 employees worked that day and Comber says they were kept busy right until the end of the day.

"We couldn't close until 10 p.m., due to all of the people."

He says business has remained very steady since the opening.
