

Fall at Rattlesnake Point

Climber in fair condition

An English tourist who fell 50 feet at Rattlesnake Point earlier this month has improved to fair condition in hospital.

Jim Rose, 45, of London, England fell to the bottom of a large cliff hitting his head August 4 at the Milton Conservation Area.

Rose and his wife were rock climbing, and their two children were standing below watching, when the accident occurred.

He was listed in fair condition at Hamilton General Hospital Wednesday after two weeks in serious condition.

Judged best

Tyler Brander finished 10th overall and Scott Bennett won the second place trophy in the individual division for the second year in a row.

Birthright looking for new Acton members

From June 11-14, Birthright, the International Pregnancy Service, held its 21st international convention at the Ritz Carlton Hotel in Atlanta Georgia. Attended by more than 375 delegates, Milton Birthright was represented by its head, Jan Platts, Eric Doubt, board member, who spoke on marketing and advertising Birthright, and volunteer Deirdre O'Higgins.

These delegates experienced the purpose of the event — to become better informed on the issues surrounding pregnancy, to meet and confer with other members dedicated to helping pregnant women.

Eric Doubt, a Toronto advertising executive, outlined a program for approaching the marketing of Birthright over the next decade in the face of the many changes and transitions occurring in the family and modern society. Effective and economical advertising tactics were possible at the chapter level but a comprehensive marketing strategy was necessary at the international level as well.

Founded in Toronto 24 years ago, Birthright has grown to span 10 countries, with 500 U.S. chapters, 85 in Canada and helps an estimated 28,000 women per month worldwide. It is a volunteer, multi-denominational, non-profit and service-oriented organization.

Birthright Milton is seeking volunteers and board members in the Acton area to provide much needed service to its clients there. If you have a little time and are interested in serving the community, please contact Eric Doubt at 415-826-5313 or Jan Platts at the number below.

For more information on Birthright services, call Birthright Milton at 416-875-1245.
