

Home, Sweet Home

The Beatty House in Acton was officially designated a heritage building by mayor Russ Miller (far left) in front of 40 people during a special plaque dedication ceremony last Sunday. Helping the mayor out was (from left) Eleanor Sonia, her brother George Beatty and their father and the home's owner, Wes Beatty.

'Yes to Canada' committee setting up shop in Halton Hills

The Halton-Peel Yes To Canada committee has been formed to encourage residents in the Halton-Peel riding to learn about the constitutional proposals and to support them with a Yes vote in the Oct. 26 referendum.

Chairman of the committee will be Ross Carlin, founder of the O Canada Foundation which earlier this year produced revitalized versions of the national anthem as a 125th birthday gift to Canada.

Committee coordinator will be Bob Malcolmson, former publisher of the Halton Hills Herald, and current president of the Halton Hills Chamber of Commerce. Malcolmson played a role in this year's Proud to be Canadian tour which was a national project of the Kinsmen's organization.

The Halton-Peel Yes To Canada committee will be headquartered at 43 Guelph St., Georgetown in premises which have been donated to the committee by Thomson Newspapers Limited.

The committee welcomes the contribution of any citizens living in the area, and will meet shortly to plan its activities. Anyone wishing to join the committee is asked to obtain, and read, a complete copy of the Charlottetown Accord - the consensus agreement on changing the constitution which was reached last month by the provinces, federal government, territories and key aboriginal groups.

Anyone interested in joining the committee now is encouraged to call Turner's office, or Bob Malcolmson, at (416) 877-2972. The committee will have its own telephone lines installed shortly.

The offices of the Yes To Canada committee was formally opened on Saturday, September 26 at 11 a.m. at the former site of the Halton Hills Herald on Guelph Street (Hwy. 7), near the corner of Mill St., in downtown Georgetown.
