

Harrison takes helm of local Army Cadets at special ceremony

Members of 676 Corps held a Change of Command Parade to welcome their new Commanding Officer.

On Wednesday, November 4, 1992 at the Georgetown Armoury, Captain A. Ross, CD relinquished command. The new Commanding Officer is Captain J.H. Harrison, CD. Captain Ross has been the CO for the past three years. He is not retiring from the Corps but will continue to serve as Quartermaster.

The 1992/1993 Army Cadet training year has begun. Young people 12-18 years of age are welcome on Wednesday evenings at 7 p.m. Activities are centred on citizenship, leadership and outdoor adventure training. Uniforms are loaned at no charge and summer camp from two to six weeks is included. No registration fee is charged for admittance to the cadet corps.

In the near future cadets will be found participating in the Georgetown Annual Remembrance Parade and the Annual Santa Claus Parade. The Cadet Rifle Team will also be competing on November 28 at Fort York Armoury, Toronto.

676 Corps will be canvassing on December 10, 11 and 12 by selling tags. The sale of tags is one of the main sources of fundraising. All monies received are used solely for the support of the corps, helping to refurbish sporting equipment and allowing the cadets to participate in cultural visits and other extra activities.

Army cadets are sponsored by the Army Cadet League of Canada and The Optimist Club of Georgetown in partnership with the Department of National Defence.

The Royal Canadian Army Cadets of Georgetown held a Change of Command parade at the Georgetown Armouries on Nov. 4 as (above) Captain A. Ross relinquished command to Captain J.H. Harrison. Capt. Ross has been the Commanding Officer for the past three years and will continue to serve as Quartermaster.
