Barbershop chorus sings tonight

The Royal City Ambassadors Barbershop Chorus will perform in Nassagaweya tonight, November 15 at 7:30 p.m.

The concert will be held at Ebenezer United Church, which has hosted a number of classical and popular music concerts in the past two years. Its 75 year old Sanctuary offers excellent acoustics and an intimate atmosphere between performers and audience.

The Royal City Ambassadors will present a varied program of barbershop music, ranging from traditional to modern, including favorites loved by barbershop enthusiasts.

Tickets will be available at the door at a cost of $7.50 for adults and $5 for students and children. In order to insure the evening is affordable for families, a $20 family pass is available. The Sanctuary can accommodate approximately 200 people.

The Royal City Ambassadors was formed in 1968, and its membership includes singers from a wide range of occupations, sharing the aims of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America. The Guelph chapter includes members from Nassagaweya as well as Acton and neighboring communities.

In addition to a love of barbershop music, the society encourages community service and supports organizations and charities through entertaining.

This concert will benefit the church's new addition and handicap access fund.

The church is located on the Guelph Line between 20 and 25 Sideroads.

Elevator and handicap access is now complete.
