Among these are the C.H.I.C.K.E.N. Club (an anti-drug program for local youths) and the annual Bang-O-Rama, a weekend extravaganza including tractor pulls, games, and fireworks held each summer at the Georgetown Fairgrounds.

He also helped start a Saturday morning program for handicapped children and volunteers to play Santa Claus each Christmas for the Norval Day Care Centre.

In addition to all this, he is an active supporter of the annual North Halton Public Speaking Contest.

"Being involved with these different organizations keeps me occupied. I used to get teased by friends in Montreal who would ask me how I found time for my actual job," Booth recalled.

Among those who nominated Booth are Dennis White, past-president of the North Halton District Scouting, and Optimist Club president Peter Welling.

"I'm just thrilled that he was picked as this year's winner. If everyone gave as much time to their community, the world would be in a lot better shape," said White.

"I was absolutely delighted to hear he will be honored as this year's winner. He has done so much work for this community," explained Welling.

Booth said that working with the handicapped children of Halton Hills has been one of the most rewarding things he has done in the community, and that he receives a great deal of joy at seeing them develop and achieve individual suc-

"You never get old playing with young people," explained Booth, "They keep me young. You couldn't get me to join to seniors' club."

He states that there's a certain satisfaction that comes from helping out the community and that the people of Halton Hills have been very supportive of him and his programs over the years.

"They've all been good people. I can't think of any problems I've had with anyone in the community."

Booth said that working with the ndicapped children of Halton while he has had to do a lot of his volunteer work from a hospital room lately, Booth says he isn't planning on a long stay at Georgetown and District Memorial Hospital. He fully expects to be home in time for the awards dinner.

Booth, who moved to Georgetown to be closer to his children and grandchildren, said he couldn't be happier with his decision and that his years in the community have been very special.

"I couldn't have picked a better town to move to. There's a lot of good work being done here and a lot of good people as well."

The Georgetown Lions Club will honor Sandy Booth at the annual Citizen of the Year awards dinner, which will be held March 2, 6:30 p.m. at the Georgetown Lions Club Hall.

Tickets for the awards dinner are $15 per person and are available at: Barrager's Cleaners, Carpet Barn, and the law firm of Helson Kogon Ashbee and Schaljo.

"We've been waiting for the province to include it in their budget for sometime."

Ward two councillor Rob Heaton is also pleased about the grant.

"I'm really pleased to see the present NDP government coming through with one of their promises," he said.

Duignan says the Glen Williams project will provide both economic and environmental benefits.

"I am delighted to say that this project will create an estimated 22 jobs and help ensure a healthy environment for our residents," said Noel Duignan. "Protecting the environment is good for the economy.

Several Glen Williams residents have had problems with their wells in the past, many of them are contaminated.

The Glen Williams project is one of 120 sewer and water projects the provincial government announced it will fund. The money is coming from the jobsOntario Capital.
