Jason Boles of Stewarttown Middle School displays a model of an F-15 Eagle fighter plane during the school's recent science fair. Jason's display featured the characteristics of flight. All Grade 8 students were required to complete a science fair project. TED BROWN Independent/Free Press

Andrea Patton, 10, of George Kennedy School displays her pet rat "Missy" which was part of her science fair experiment on display at the school last week. Andrea used Missy to test a number of different types of rat food to determine which one was the rat's favorite. TED BROWN Independent/Free Press
