Police

Blotter

Assault charge
A young offender has been charged with assault after an incident after school on Wednesday. The victim and the accused were in a vacant lot near a school when the incident occurred.

Hornby break-in
Someone broke into Hornby Tower Golf Club at about 3:30 a.m. Wednesday. The thief entered a storage area through a window, but didn't take anything. Through another window he entered the pro shop, where he took an undisclosed amount of cash, police said. An alarm was activated, but the suspect was gone when police arrived. They are continuing their investigation.

Industrial accident
A forklift operator was injured at Sheridan Nurseries on Wednesday morning when the wheel fell of the forklift he was driving. The university student was driving the lift down a small incline when the right wheel fell off, and he was thrown from the seat, police said. The forklift, which was not loaded at the time, overturned and struck the driver.

The man was treated at Georgetown and District Memorial Hospital. The incident will be investigated by the Ministry of Labor.

Wallets stolen
Three women had their wallets removed from their purses while they were shopping at Loblaw's in Georgetown Wednesday afternoon. All three women said they left their purses in their shopping carts while they were shopping. One woman believed her cart was in the way and moved it, turning away to look at some produce. A few minutes later she discovered her wallet had been taken, police said. Two other women reported that they were asked a question about produce by a woman, and believe that while they were distracted a man removed their wallets. Police are looking to question a thin black woman with dreadlocks wearing a flowered dress and a thin muscular black man, both between 25 and 30.
