JOWING YOUR LAW

The appearance and health of your lawn is maintained by mowing your lawn at the proper height. A common, very serious error is to mow lawns too short!

A lawn should always be mowed at least 5 to 6 cm (2 to 2 1/2 inches) above the ground. Mowing height should be increased during the heat of summer. Grasses require the longer cut to survive the summer heat and drought.

The lawn should be mowed frequently so that only a small clipping is taken from the grass plant. Never remove more than 1/3 of the total grass blade when mowing.

Mower blades should be kept razor sharp. This sharp cut will make a clean wound that will heat quickly, look tidy and resist disease attack. It may be necessary to have mower blades sharpened 2-3 times yearly. Ideally, the best time to mow your lawn is early morning.
