Cat survives tumble from 10th floor balcony

On Wednesday evening Shelley Bray, a resident of Silvercreek Towers on Park Ave. in Georgetown, was outside of the building when something struck her shoulder, then bounced off a car.

She looked down, and to her horror, she discovered a cat lying on the ground.

"He was just lying there, and he wasn't moving," said Bray who ran inside to get a blanket for the cat. When she returned the cat was walking around in a daze.

The cat was rushed to Halton Hills Veterinary Clinic that night.

Angela Metzger said her 11-month old cat Gomez fell from their apartment balcony on the 10th floor.

"He was out there and probably jumped up on the ledge, like he does all the time," said Metzger. "We think he caught the eye of another cat in the parking lot, and fell off."

Dr. Tony Pacevicius of the Halton Hills Veterinary Clinic said Gomez was in "pretty critical" condition but he is optimistic he will be able to pull through.

"Luckily he didn't have any broken bones," said Metzger. "He should be home tomorrow."

"The cat was not hurt as bad as we thought initially. He has multiple injuries. Cats have loose skin which acts as a sort of built-in parachute," said Dr. Pacevicius.

"Cats are able to survive falls that often other species can't," said Dr. Pacevicius.

He stressed the importance of cat owners keeping a close eye on their cats when they are out on the balcony.

"Cats can get excited, they can jump to catch a fly or something, and jump right off the balcony."

He said about once a year they get similar cases at the clinic. "Just like a small child, pet owners should never leave their pets unattended on the balcony."

Metzger said Gomez won't be allowed out on her balcony again.

254 donate at blood clinic

Red Cross officials reported 254 donors attended the Georgetown Blood Donor Clinic on Monday, August 9; 238 units of blood were donated.

Awards were given to the following donors:

The next regular clinic is to be held November 8. A special clinic is to be held August 27, in the Georgetown Mall.

The August 9 clinic was supported by Johnson & Associates. Their help in printing and distribution of posters, setting up the clinic, loading equipment, publicity and general assistance at the clinic was appreciated.

Special thanks is extended to Maruk Bupooji and her telephone committee, Shirley Chaplain for publicity and promotion and Janet Dean and June Russell the convenors of the clinic.
