

MP offers support to residents

 "Environmentally speaking landfills have got to be the worst. The province should be looking at Brampton which has virtually solved its waste problem due to an energy from waste facility and composting," added Reed.

"For the amount of money spent in the (site selection) process we could have built an energy from waste plant."

MP Reed said he will do all he can at the federal level to fight a landfill for his riding residents who live near the preferred site.

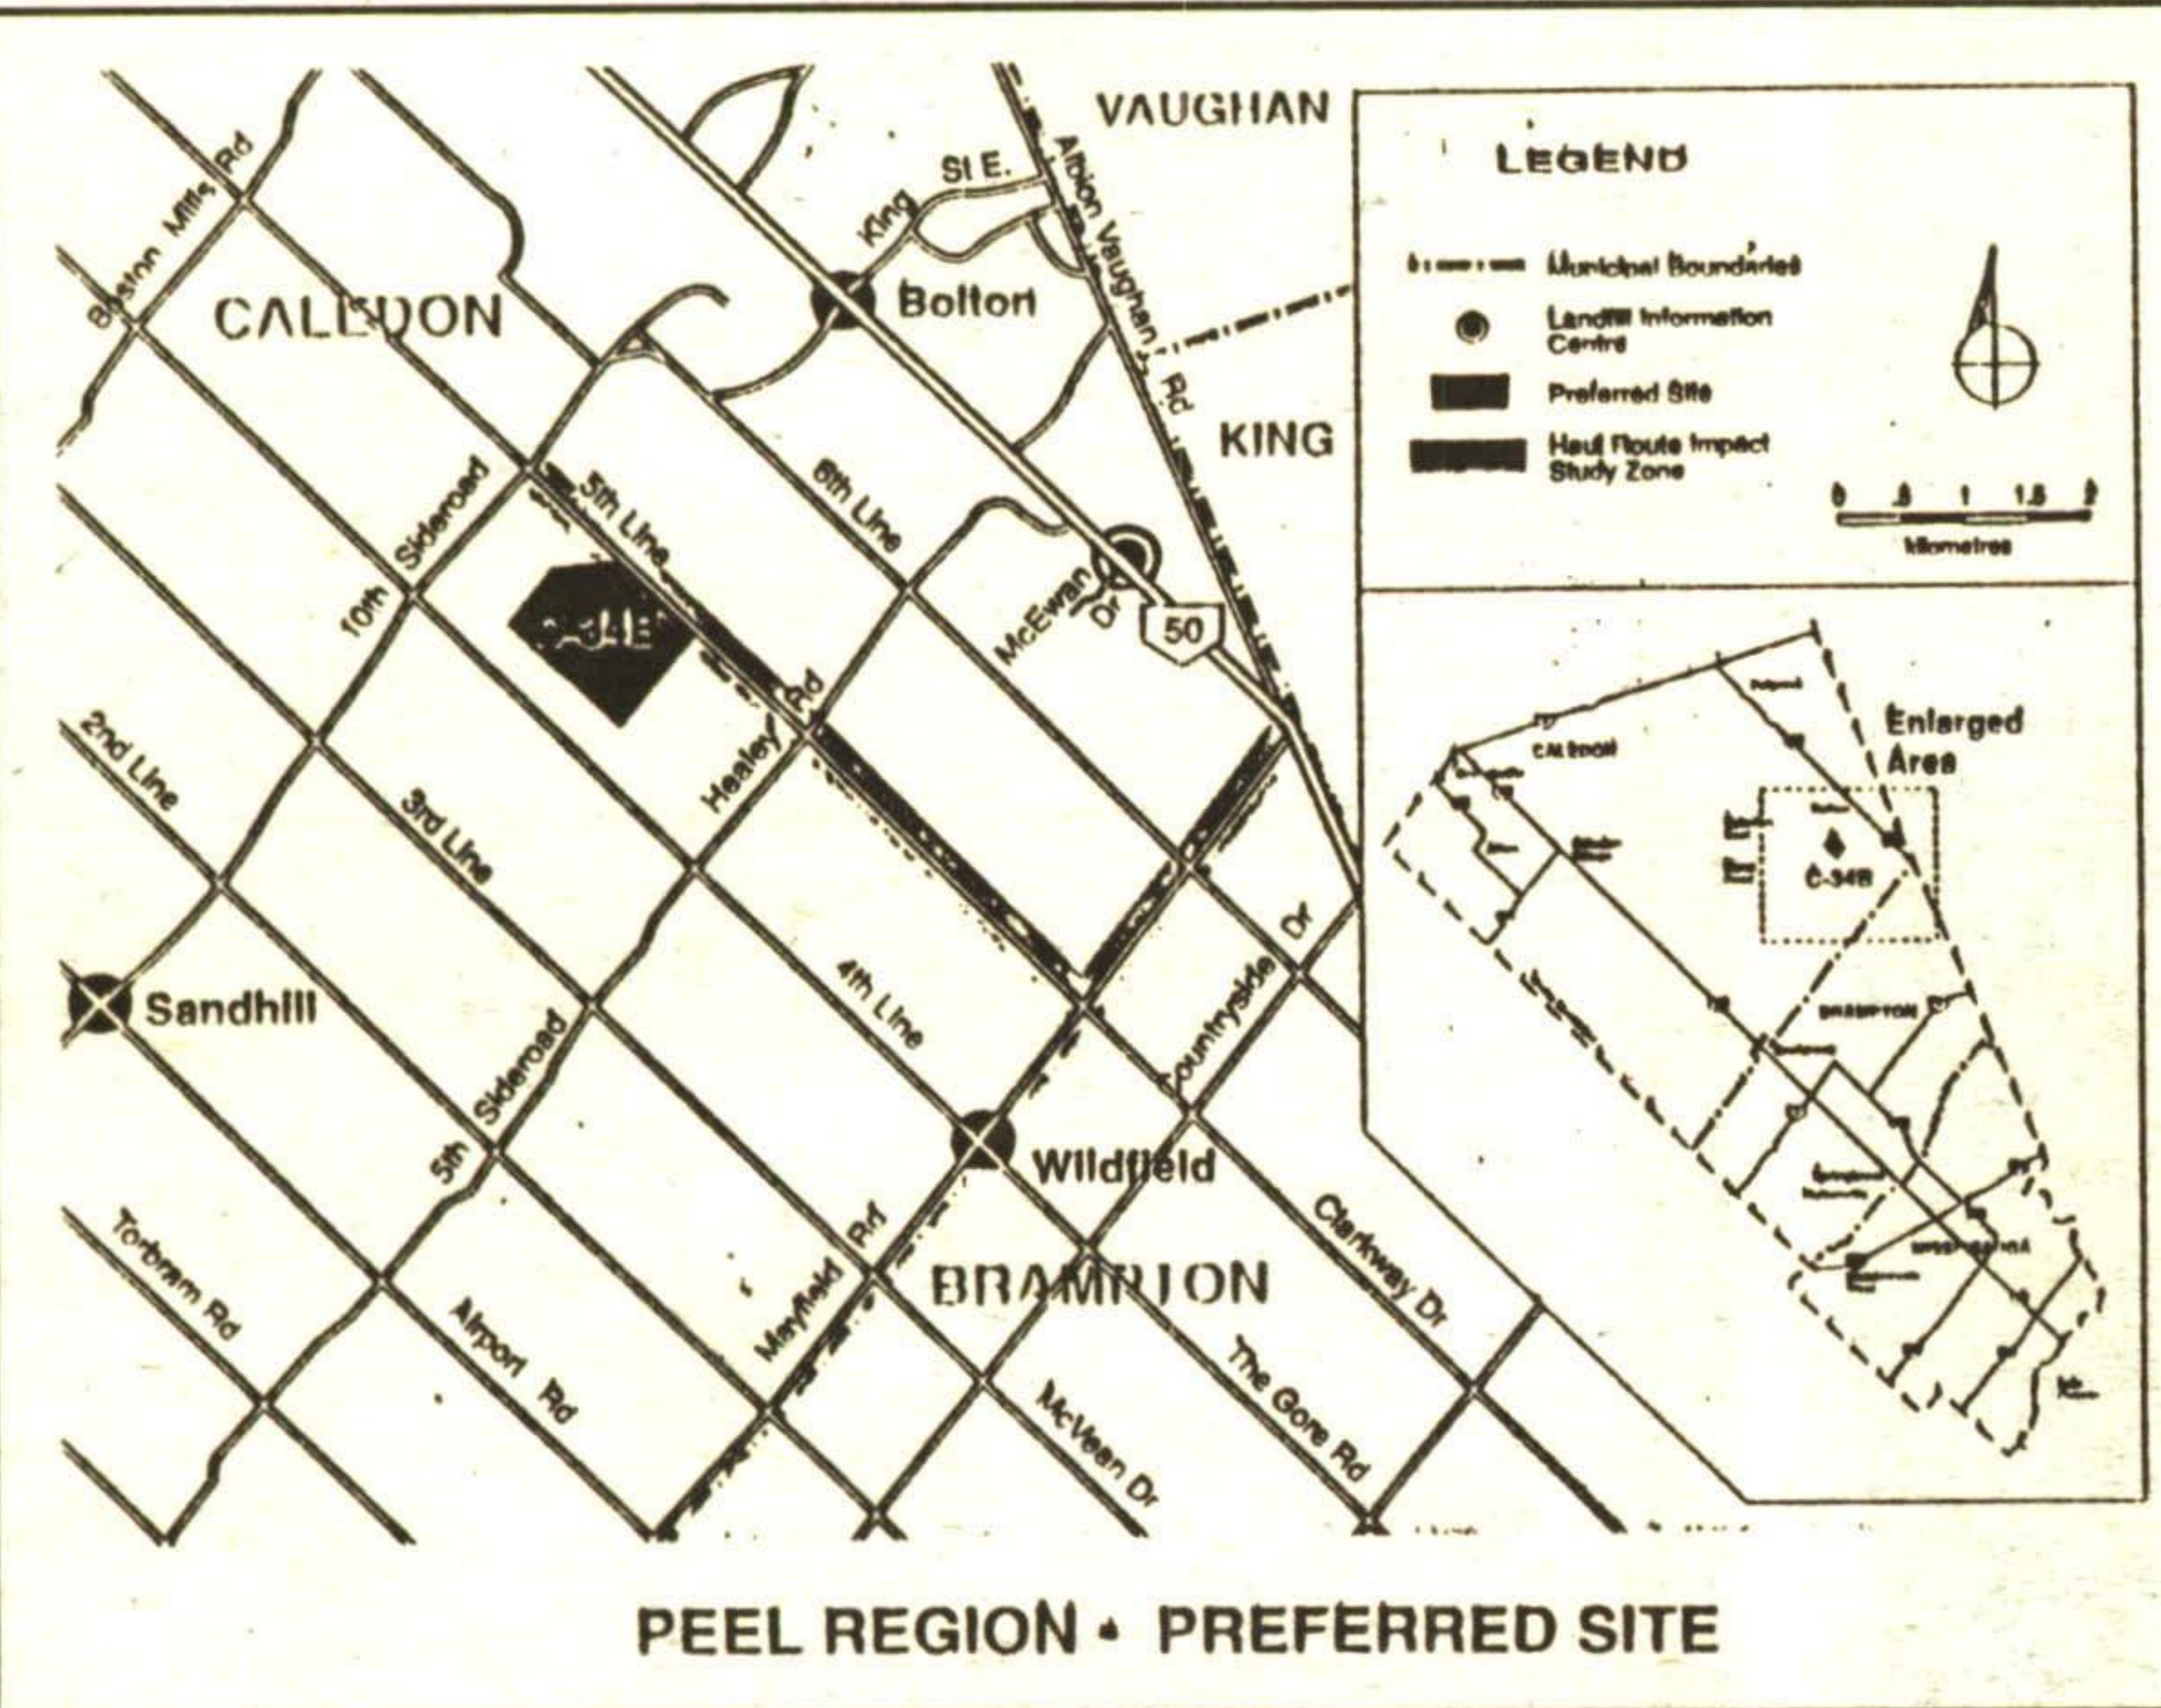

"Two things that have to be looked at are the Canada Environmental Protection Act and the role of the Department of Fisheries and Oceans," said Reed.

The town of Halton Hills took an active role in the landfill battle. "Halton Hills town staff submitronmental concerns. We are confident our interventions helped," said Arvin Prasad, town planner.

IWA chair Pitman said hearings will be conducted by the Environmental Assessment and Ontario Municipal boards to determine the suitability of preferred sites. They are expected to begin in late 1994. The joint board will make the final decision on the sites. Both the IWA and citizen's group will be represented at the hearings.

While the battle may appear to be over for the Credit Valley Coalition Reed said "we will continue to lend help and support to those citizen groups from the designated sites that continue to protest this outrageous process."

PEEL REGION - PREFERRED SITE

ted several reports to the IWA outlining the two (neighboring) sites were not feasible because of inadequate landfill design, size and environmental concerns. We are confident our interventions helped," said Arvin Prasad, town planner.
