

Scouts experience good camp

By JEAN LAYMAN
Special to The Independent/Free Press

A highlight at the Annual North Halton B.P. Woodsman Camp or North Halton District Scouts was the A Frame race. One of the best camps, it was held Oct 22-24 at Camp Blue Heron — Scout Reserve at Blue Springs, west of Acton.

Camp Chief Alex Furness reported the boys had a great time even though the temperature went down to -4 C at night, but the days were bright and sunny.

Troops taking part were 1st Ashgrove, 3rd Acton, 1st Georgetown, 2nd Georgetown, 4th Georgetown, 1st Glen Williams and eight Scouts and two leaders from 6th Milton.

Rotating to the various events for 1st year Scouts, were knots and lashing by Ron Neath, Lynn Clark; map and compass by Brian Meschino; first aid, Nick from the army; knife and axe - Venturers; plant and tree identification by George Henderson; fire building and lighting by Rob White and Venturers.

Second and 3rd year Scouts had knots and lashing by John and Barb Rothwell; archery by Dave Dubreuil and Al Watt; rope making by Joe Gregoris; pioneering by Mark Rowe and Dan Green; aerial runway by Al Watt; monkey bridge by Dan Green, Joe Gregoris and Brian Meschino; tower by Peter Moss and Ron Neath; gate by John Rothwell.

Campfire Chief was Scouter Steve Titus of 1st Ashgrove. The Scouts own was led by 4th Georgetown.

A night hike was enjoyed, also wide games. The alphabet scavenger hunt proved to be successful. The 4th Georgetown troop won the A frame race, just narrowly beating 1st Glen Williams.

North Halton District Commissioner of Scouts, Steve Thompson, presented Troop Scouters John and Barb Rothwell with Scout Craft badges. John and Barb recently earned this award, which was presented at Scouters Club. John and Barb are the first in the district to receive this badge. From left, DC Steve Thompson, and Troop Scouters John and Barb Rothwell of 4th Georgetown.
