GREEN THUMB GARDENING

By CHRISTINE COLE WINTER ROSE CARE

* Do not prune them hard or heavy at this time of year (leave that until spring).

- You can neaten up their appearance by cutting them to a height of three feet.

* Remove all foliage that has not fallen off the stems.

* The graft union (at bulge at soil level) must be protected for the winter.

- Mound soil, peat moss or aged manure over and around the stems in a cone shape to a depth of 1-1/2-2 ft.

- Rose Collars make this take very easy. These plastic tubes have holes in the bottom to provide drainage. The height of the tube makes it easier to pile the protective material to the proper height.

- Never put plastic bags over roses or other plants for the winter.

- Climbing roses should be bent down to the ground with stems and graft union covered to the same depth as other roses with soil or other material.

- Hardy shrub roses such as Rugosas and Explorers do not require winter protection.

* Rabbits and mice love roses.

- If they are numerous in your area, protect rose stems by painting a Rodent Repellent on them before winter.

Each week Christine Cole of Tuitman's Garden Centre and Landscaping, Highway 25, 1 mile south of Acton, 853-2480, will be presenting helpful tips and information to assist you in creating your garden show-place!
