Midgets lead series

Juvs ousted

The Georgetown Juvenile Raiders had their season cut short last Thursday with a 4-2 series loss to the Chinguacousy Blues in opening round OMHA playdown action.

After tying the first game 3-3 and then edging out the Blues 4-3 in game two, the Raiders hit a brick wall and went down four straight games - with the series coming to a close with a 6-0 loss last Thursday evening.

"I was very proud of the guys this season. They played as a team and made big improvements during the year, and in the end went down fighting," explained head coach Dan Curtis.

Bantam teams set to compete for tourney honors

The annual Georgetown International Bantam Tournament is fast approaching, with several squads eyeing berths in the division and grand championship finals on Sunday, March 20. Here's summary of the teams involved and the schedule for the event. Halton Hills will be well represented with the Halton Hurricanes competing in the A division. Georgetown will compete for C division honors while Acton and the Georgetown Selects will fight for D division honors. The girls will also get an opportunity to compete this year with their final game taking place on Sunday, March 13.
