The Halton Regional Police are

Stolen property and drugs seized

Crime Stoppers hits $1-million mark

Crime Stoppers of Halton reached the million dollar mark in February.

According to statistical information recorded by the program, just over one million dollars worth of stolen property and drugs have been seized since December 5, 1988, with the assistance of Crime Stoppers.

Information received from anonymous callers to Crime Stoppers has led police investigators to $749,411 in stolen property, and $250,705 worth of narcotics. The grand total is $1,000,116.

This community based program, managed by civilian volunteers from all over Halton Region, receives information on crime from people who wish to remain anonymous, and then passes the information on to police for follow-up. Crime Stoppers will then pay a cash reward for any information that has resulted in an arrest.

The program has paid out only $15,075 in rewards so far, as not all callers claim the rewards.

The police co-ordinator for the program advises the credit for their success should go to the citizens of Halton who care about their community, and to the various media outlets who provide a means of publicizing unsolved crime.

Blotter

Olds totalled

A 1984 Oldsmobile was destroyed in an accident Wednesday night during the snow storm.

The Olds was heading north on Ninth Line after 9 p.m. heading down the hill when the driver saw a line of traffic stopped because of the slippery conditions.

The driver tried to stop, but skidded into the back of a 1991 Mercury driven by an Uxbridge resident, police said. The Mercury was moderately damaged.

Fifth Line break-in

Someone entered a house which is under construction on Fifth Line on the weekend and stole tools valued at $1,800. Three entrances were not secured.

There was no damage to the single family home, but tools, including drills, saws, sanders and also a watch were taken. A van was seen nearby early Saturday morning.
