One of a kind show next weekend

The Ontario Agricultural Museum is celebrating the 10th anniversary of its Great Canadian Antique Tractor Field Days on July 16 and 17 with a line up of activities not to be missed.

The only show of its kind, this event is devoted to Canadian-made farm machinery and serves as a fun-filled lesson on Ontario history.

Returning this year is the Farm Toy Sale and Show, with more than 55 tables of unique farm toys for purchase and display. Visitors during the "Great Canadian" will be able to fill out a ballot to win a toy Cockshutt 30 tractor, worth approx $125, donated by Teeswater Custom Tractor.

The real life inspiration for these toys will be on display as visitors explore one of the largest and rarest collections of operating steam engines and tractors in the province, including Ontario's oldest tractor - a 1911 single-cylinder Fairbanks-Morse.

Members of The Canadian Wheelmen will be displaying a variety of antique bicycles, a new feature at this year's event.

"Combining a traditional Tractor

Show with the attraction of the museum leads to an event everybody will enjoy," Peter Ledwith, curator of Collections for the Museum, said.

Family members will get a farm-style workout by competing in games and contests including bag-tying, log-sawing and nail-driving. Tractor drivers will be tested through a series of competitions, a great attraction for spectators. A free copy of Canadian Antique Power magazine, with a complimentary program for the "Great Canadian", will be given out to all the visitors.

The Ontario Agricultural Museum offers a first-hand glimpse into Ontario's rural and agricultural history with more than 30 buildings, exhibits, and displays. Costumed interpreters, farming projects, animals and tractor-drawn wagon rides bring the scenic site to life.

The museum is located 5 km west of Milton, beside Kelso Conservation Area. Take Highway 25 south and follow the signs.

The museum is open daily, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. through September 25.
