Dog was great with kids' --- owner

"We got Jake at eight weeks old and we had a four month old baby. She used to pull herself up by putting her hand on Jake's face...He was always great with the kids," Terrell said.

"We got this dog because they're muscular, yet peacefullooking. In my eyes, they're a beautiful dog." He would never buy a rottweiler again, because "I'd be too scared, now", he said.

Park users surveyed

Parks Canada is undertaking a comprehensive consultation on user fees in national parks and national historic sites.

The consultations will include the subjects of visitors fees, property and realty charges, as well as levels of service in town sites and historic canals. Park visitors, business partners and local residents will be consulted during the balance of the summer, leading to a new set of fees effective next year.

There are three objectives: · to ensure those receiving services are paying an amount that is fair for services received; receiving fair market value for rentals of assets in the parks;

 to ensure that commercial operations within national parks and national historic sites are firmly established on a no-subsidy basis.

Current revenues are used to establish and operate parks.
