

John* and Glenda think the only time you should be thrown a curve is when you are holding one of these.

When you are selling your home, surprises are the last thing you want. You want to know what's going to happen beforehand, and you expect everything to proceed according to plan. And while the occasional error can't be avoided, it shouldn't be caused by your Realtor®.

That's why so many homeowners in this area choose to work with John* and Glenda* to sell their home. They know that John and Glenda's attention to detail and careful planning ensure that everything from the first pitch to the final closing will proceed as smoothly as a home run swing. No surprise plays. No last minute lineup changes. No curves. No players strike!

Call John* and Glenda* today and ask them about their marketing and sales plan, and for a copy of "Dress your Home for Success", a video to assist you in preparing your home to sell quickly. Let them show you how to get home safe.
