

Get Appliances Ready for Winter

The summer's over, school is starting and it's time to close the summer house. You've stashed the beach chairs and emptied the cupboards, but did you get your appliances ready for winter? According to Maytag, preparing water-using appliances for storage is especially important if they will be subjected to temperatures below freezing.

"Clothes washers, dishwashers and refrigerators can be damaged if water is not removed from hoses and internal parts," says Julie Bundy, Maytag's manager of consumer education. The same applies to above-freezing storage and long periods of non-use, such as vacations.

Starting with the clothes washer, fill it with warm or hot water, add a cup of bleach or white vinegar, and run it on "Regular" — without clothes — through a complete cycle. Then, disconnect the washer from the electrical supply — that's important! — locate the drain hose (consult installation guide) and remove all excess water.

Give the dishwasher a similar treatment. Selecting a short wash cycle, use one of the following methods: Fill both sides of the detergent cup with automatic dishwasher detergent or baking soda; or add one cup of bleach to the bottom of the tub after water has filled in; or run the dishwasher for a complete cycle, then carefully clean the door-gasket with baking soda and water. Next, turn off the water supply and set the dishwasher to drain, following manufacturer's instructions. Run the drain portion of the cycle twice to remove all water. Shut off the power, disconnect from the electrical supply and prop open the door.

Before closing down the refrigerator, remove all food. Start by turning off the ice maker/dispenser by raising the wire arm. Turn off the water supply line to the water valve, place a pitcher under the dispenser, and drain the holding tank and plastic tubing. Next, disconnect the refrigerator from its electrical outlet and clean thoroughly, including the drain pan behind the toe plate. Use a mild detergent or two tablespoons of baking soda per quart of warm water. Let glass shelves warm to room temperature before cleaning. Dry the interior and prop the doors open to prevent odors.

After a long storage period, expose water-using appliances to above-freezing temperatures before using. This guarantees that any residual water in internal parts is thawed.

Come springtime, if you have any problems starting up your appliances, make sure they are plugged in before calling a repairman. It's estimated that between 10 percent to 15 percent of all service calls could be avoided if people would follow a simple checklist.
