

Aztec awarded
Aztec Computers of Georgetown was awarded the two-year contract for the supply, delivery, set up and configuration of computer equipment and peripherals for the Civic Centre at the council meeting Monday night. Aztec came in with the lowest total two-year bid of $99,800. Councillor Ron Chatten said he was pleased to see the contract awarded to a local firm.

Temporary home
The temporary home of Acton Senior's Centre will be the Acton Community Centre Hall. Council passed a bylaw making that temporary location official Monday night. The new location was decided on after efforts to lease the former FlightLine building at 7 Mill St. fell through.

Honeywell contract
Honeywell Limited of Hamilton was awarded the contract for heating, ventilation and air conditioning at the Civic Centre for three years. The total amount of the contract is $74,151 including taxes.

No action
Council supported an opinion provided by town solicitor Steve D'Agostino Monday night that council take no further action regarding the waiver or repeal of non-residential development charges until the development charges policy review is completed next year. Council was considering waiving development charges for Trojan Waste and Recycling Containers Ltd. That company was considering moving into the Fero Steel building on Armstrong. Company president

Council

Digest

Mark Shepherd requested the development charges be waived. D'Agostino said before charges are waived the town should initiate a study, and a public hearing should also be held. He also said development charges are based on the premise that serviced and non-serviced development would share equally in capital costs associated with new development.

Respond to allegations
Council passed a motion by Acton councillor Norm Elliott at Monday night's meeting requesting region staff attend an upcoming council meeting to respond to allegations made by Mike Foley, a member of the Public Liaison Committee searching for water for Georgetown, that the region has pulled the wool over committee members' eyes.

Rent fee waived
At the Oct. 11 meeting, council supported a Globe Productions request to waive the rent at the Trafalgar Rd. Community Centre through the end of the year. Globe requested the waiver as it is leasing a new location on Armstrong Ave., and had to begin paying rent there on Oct. 1. David Ambrose, Globe president said they would be finishing off their current production at the Trafalgar Rd. centre, and making improvements at the new location.
