

Ashgrove W.I. guest spoke on citizenship

By MARGARET WRIGGLESWORTH
Special to The Independent/Free Press

Ashgrove Women's Institute Meeting was held at the home of Isla Allison on October 11 with 20 members and two visitors present. After repeating the Institute Grace, lunch was served. Due to Velma Ella's absence, Norma Alexander assisted Mary Wilson. Marion Hunter, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting. Treasurer's report was given by Ethel Wilson. Gwen Brander gave a 4H report. Mildred Blackett on Flower Committee said sympathy cards was sent. Marion MacPhail gave a report on the District Directors meeting held Sept. 19. Peggy Knapp, convenor of Citizenship and Legislation and our president introduced Alfred Dryden Hale, speaker and a relative of the hockey Drydens. He was in federal politics from 1957 to 1974. He graduated from the OAC in 1934 and citizenship was his subject at our meeting. He said take your complaints to the right source, federal or provincial. What is citizenship? The status of a citizen with rights and duties. In 1947, we were defined as British subjects, now we are called Canadian citizens. In 1977 there was a new citizenship act, all Canadians shared the same responsibility. In order to be a good citizen, you must be active in the community. Don't say you have no time, we have all equal time and don't put off till tomorrow what you can do today. Take time to work, think, play, read, worship, to help and enjoy friend, to love to dream, laugh and plan. Be sure to vote, join organizations and speak up. Do volunteer work. Peggy Knapp presented the speaker with a basket of goodies.

AHS Ontario Scholars

At the annual commencement exercises at Acton High School Friday night (Nov. 4) graduation students were honored with an array of awards for numerous academic achievements. From left, Ontario Secondary School Diploma honor graduate Aimee Kamminga was joined by Ontario Scholarship recipients Michelle Lanau, Christina Trotter, Anne-Marie Kinnon and Erin Martijn. Other recipients included Ontario Scholar Kirsten Hand and Ontario Secondary School Diploma honor graduates Jennifer Gervais, Julie Stull and Rebecca Sikkema.
