

Charley Fitzwhiskey's sponsors athletics

Midterms were released to the students of GDHS last week. Now that the Social Contract is cutting back on funds, the school hands out the report cards to the students instead of mailing them.

The usual wave of uneasiness flowed through the school the day the reports were given out. I'm sure all the students also looked forward to having their parents attend the parent interview night last Thursday.

If the grades were not up to their expectations though, we the students have a month until the letters of concern and danger of failing are mailed on December 1.

The GDHS Athletic Department has received a sponsor to help compensate for budget cuts to the school. Charley Fitzwhiskey's has volunteered to sponsor our teams and events during the next year.

"There will be a Charley Fitzwhiskey's sign out in front of the school and they are planning on holding raffles for the students," said Jim Hall, head of the Athletics Department. In return for sponsoring our teams, the school plans on advertising for Charley Fitzwhiskey's in the paper and display the forementioned sign out front.

GDHS Students Symposium

AARON HUGHES

With the arrival of Santa Claus during last Saturday's parade, the Student Athletics Association (SAA) once again took part. Last year GDHS not only participated, but won the youth award.

I seem to remember the last Santa Claus parade it snowed and sometimes rained. This year's weather was much better. We wouldn't want our SAA members being uncomfortable.

The Remembrance Day ceremonies were held in the cafeteria on Friday, November 11. Pete Ashby was the host of the solemn occasion and Mr. Bob McMenemy addressed the student body.

Every year the school holds a Remembrance Day assembly and every year it's basically the same thing. The unusual aspect about it all, is that I never get tired of it. It is a day to remember all those who gave their lives so we can live happily and in peace.

So, to all those who complain about how morbid and/or boring they think the ceremony is, please, show a little respect. If it wasn't for those young soldiers who lost their lives, you would be speaking German right now.

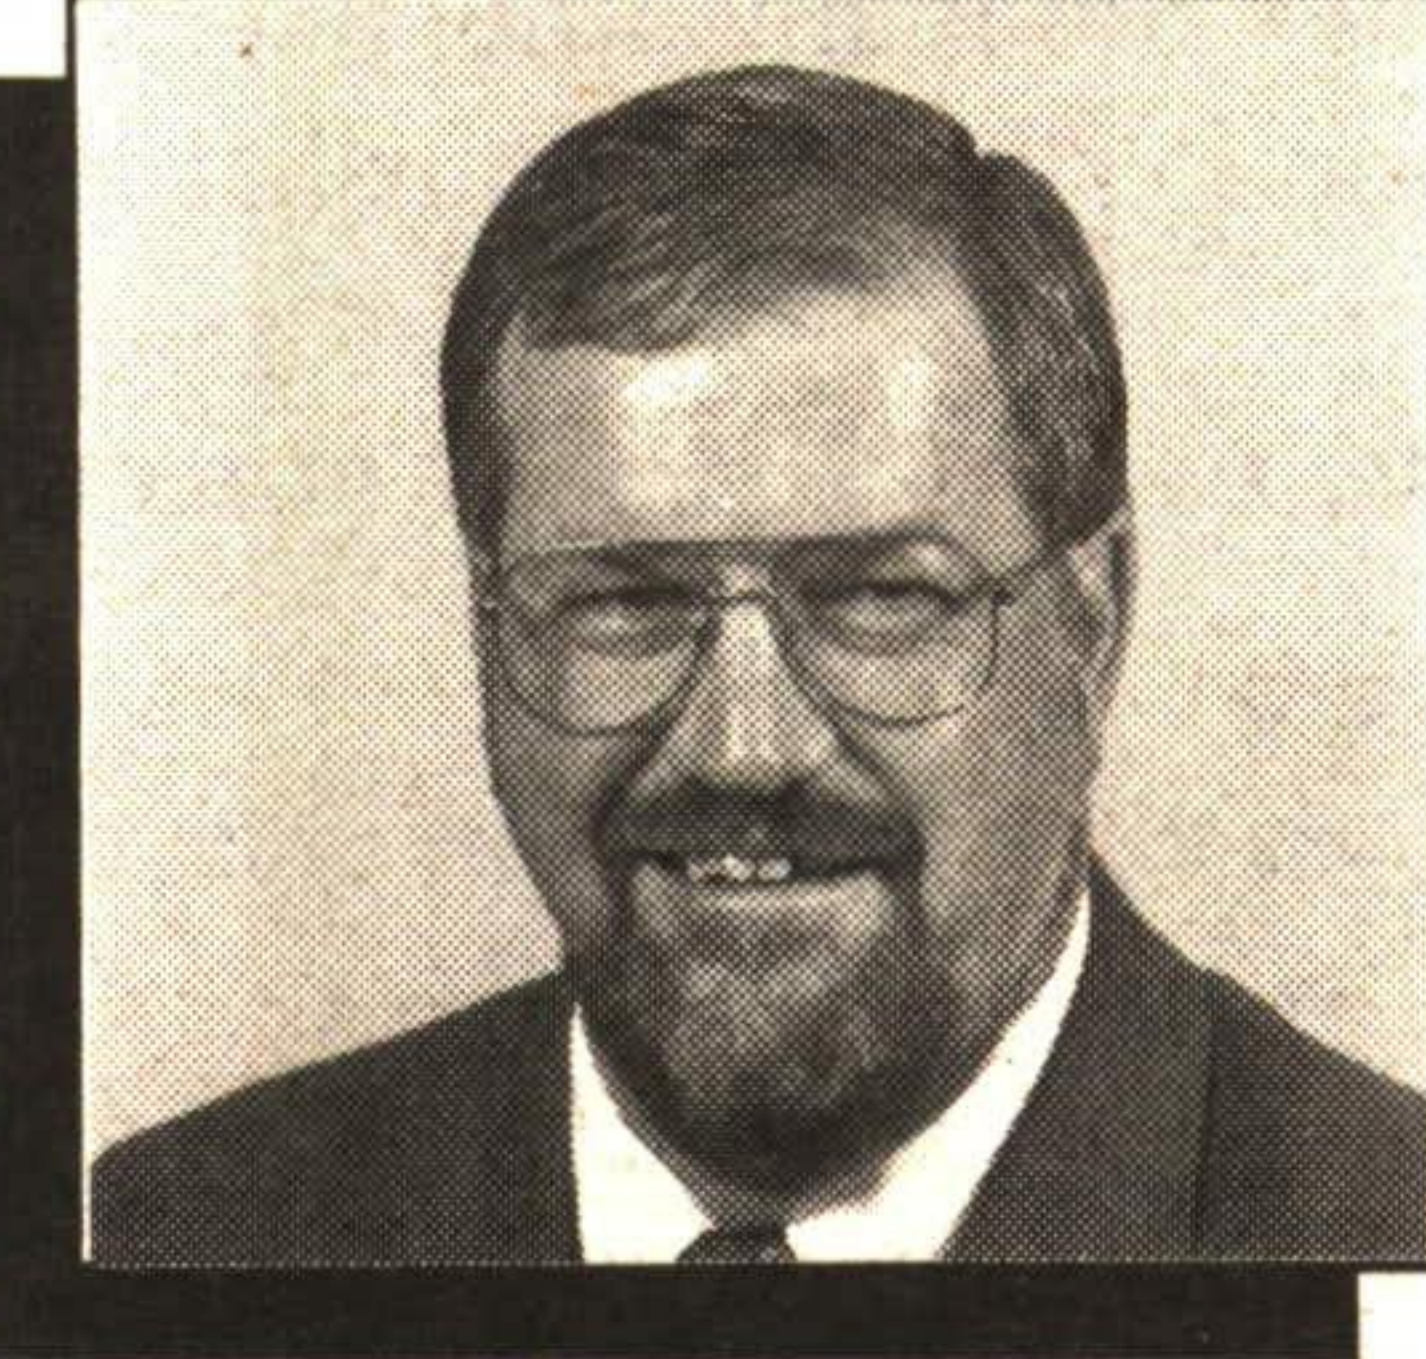

Four students from GDHS are hosting a fashion show inside the school titled Seasonal Stitches. Emma Booth, Brent Wilkinson, Beth-Anne Evans, and Paul Burgess are presenting the show as a group project in their Administrative Study course the four are taking at the school. The price for training.

Congratulations to all the graduates who took part in the commencement activities on Friday, November 4. With more than 260 graduates attending the formal celebration, it was an honorable occasion.

I'm not going to give you all the numbers of awards or who won what because you've already heard. Simply put, it was a very proud moment, not only for our school, but for all of Georgetown.
