Betty Farr, proprietor of the family-owned Leathertown Lumber said they do their very best to be competitive when it comes to prices. Farr, who was raised in a family lumber business understands the importance of customer service. "We care about our customers," she said.

Farr said after spending 30 years on other activities, she decided to put her years of knowledge to work and help "the business grow." Leathertown Lumber prides itself on the experience and knowledge of its staff in helping customers with their projects. "As for the service, the people who work here are very knowledgeable. It's worth while to drive the extra mile," she said.
