One woman show opens on Tuesday

Longtime Georgetown resident and artist, Jo Walterson will be exhibiting her paintings at the Cultural Centre Gallery in Georgetown from November 29 to Dec. 30.

Local landscapes of Glen Williams, Caledon and Halton Hills in watercolor along with scenes of Georgian Bay and flowers in acrylic will be featured at the show, Walterson said.

The one person show will feature about 24 pieces.

Walterson herself will be on hand to greet visitors the first week the exhibit opens during library hours.

Walterson said she has been working towards this show for about six months in between holding shows at her Forge Studio Gallery in Terra Cotta and taking part in the Halton Hills Studio Tour held in October.

The show will enable Walterson, "to invite friends to see what you are doing. I can share my work with my friends and customers."

The official opening of the exhibit will be on November 29 from 7-10 p.m.
