In rehearsals

Since she's forbidden to visit anyone, an irritated John Bart (Mark Tiller) attempts to forcibly remove his wife Elly (Lorraine Holland) from the neighbor's house while Richard (Brain Banyard) watches in shock, in Georgetown Little Theatre's newest suspenseful production, Hide and Seek, which opens Oct. 18 at John Elliott Theatre. North Halton Association for the Developmentally Handicapped is the recipient of Georgetown Little Theatre's benefit performance of Hide and Seek on Oct. 17. Tickets for the benefit are $10. Call Etta Mills, 873-8181 to purchase.

Entertainment in brief...

Song and Dance

The Williams Mill Gallery presents Song and Dance, an exhibition of oil paintings by Robin Symmes, until Oct. 29. Opening reception, Oct. 6, 1-5 p.m. Meet the artist.

Ask for your surprise at the Information Desk in Georgetown or the Circulation Desk in Acton.

For info: 873-2681 (Georgetown) or 853-0301 (Acton).

Acton, 7:30 p.m.

The Franks entertained thousands at dances and on the radio as The Sodbusters during early 1900s. Her book will be available for purchase.

Library sign up

October is Library Card Sign Up Month. Every child who comes into the library in October with a parent or guardian and registers for their first library card will receive a special surprise.

Historical Society meets

The Bands Played On — Acton resident Jean Somerville will talk about the Frank family and their love of music at the Oct. 9 meeting of the Esquering Historical Society, at Knox Church,

Drum and bugle teacher

756 Royal Canadian Air Cadet Squadron is in desperate need of a music instructor to teach drum and bugle for their marching band. If you can volunteer some time, call Lt. Schulze at 873-0492.
