

Police lay impaired driving charges

Halton Regional Police arrested and charged two young men with impaired driving within a few minutes of each other last Friday morning outside the Nashville North nightclub on Guelph St. in Norval.

At approximately 3:15 a.m., officers observed a man enter his vehicle and depart onto Guelph St. Police reported the vehicle swerved in the roadway, crossing the centre line and onto the shoulder of the road.

A traffic stop was made and the officer determined that the driver had consumed alcohol.

Charged with exceeding the blood alcohol limit and impaired driving is Kevin Michaud, 23, of Cambridge.

Just before 3:30 a.m., a Ford Mustang left the bar's parking lot and turned south onto Winston Churchill Blvd., Halton Police allege, and was seen driving erratically.

The vehicle was pulled over and the officer reported that the driver stumbled when exiting and showed other signs of impairment.

Chris Haire, 20, of Georgetown, is charged with having over 80 mg of alcohol in 100 ml of blood and impaired driving.

Cops experiment with cameras in cars

Halton Regional Police Service has launched an In Car Camera System (ICCS) pilot program for 2016.

Operational field testing is currently underway with three traffic enforcement vehicles outfitted with in-car camera technology. Two vehicles are based out of District 1 (Milton) and one vehicle is operating out of District 2 (Oakville).

This ICCS pilot will explore the use of this technology as an investigative tool to assist officers in their traffic enforcement activities and investigations. It may also be used to supplement written evidence and courtroom testimony.

It is the policy of the Halton Regional Police Service to utilize the ICCS for the purposes of law enforcement and to promote public safety, while balancing the public's right to privacy.
