HSSAA playoffs coming to conclusion

It's been a tough week for Georgetown hockey teams in the Halton high school playoffs.

In girls' action, the first-place GDHS Rebels, who enjoyed a superb regular season with a 12-0-2 record, lost 4-1 at home Tuesday to Oakville's Iroquois Ridge Trailblazers in the Tier I semifinals and were eliminated from the post-season.

CtK's senior girls were also edged out in the Tier I semis after a 2-1 loss to Notre Dame in Burlington on Tuesday.

On the boys' side, both the Jaguars and Rebels went winless in the HSSAA playdowns in Oakville and didn't make the quarterfinals.

Georgetown's junior girls volleyball team advanced to the HSSAA Tier I semifinal before being ousted by Oakville's Abbey Park Eagles in two straight sets Tuesday. CtK's juniors were swept in last week's quarterfinal by St. Thomas Aquinas.

On the hoops court, CtK's senior boys upset Notre Dame 55-41 in the first round of playoffs but ran into the undefeated Bishop Reding Royals next and were grounded 81-47.

The GHAC swim championships are being held today in Hamilton.

Stanley Cup coming to Hockey Heritage

There are still a few tickets available for the Georgetown Hockey Heritage Council's Awards Dinner on Monday, March 7 at the Acton Legion.

This year's honoree is longtime Georgetown minor hockey coach Gary Stone.

Just confirmed this week is a visit by the Stanley Cup, accompanied by Mike Bolt of the Hockey Hall of Fame, during the evening's social hour, from 6:15-6:50 p.m. when the revered trophy will be available to take photos with, but no touching please!

TSN host and Canadian women's hockey team Olympic gold medalist Tessa Bonhomme and NHL senior vice president of hockey operations Jim Gregory are confirmed as special guests, along with former Montreal Canadien Gilbert Dionne and Georgetown's own Michael McNiven, a netminding prospect of the Canadiens, Georgetown Raiders head coach & GM Greg Walters and speedskater Kelsey Carr, who competes for the Milton club.
