Beth makes the cut

Six-year-old Beth Pavelich wanted to grow her hair as long as the Disney character Rapunzel, but her mom recently said it was time for the lovely locks to be scaled back.

The St. Catherine of Alexandria Elementary School student had heard that her hair could be donated cancer victims who had lost theirs and decided to drop by the newly-opened W Salon at 324 Guelph St. in Georgetown.

W Salon owner Sarah Short cut Pavelich's hair, which was in turn was donated to Pantene Beautiful Lengths in Mississauga.

The hair must be a minimum of eight inches in length, or for those who can't donate that much, a contribution of $8 will help female cancer victims feel like themselves again with free real-hair wigs.
