BIG 2ND HALF FOR JAGS: Shannon Hughes of Christ the King's Jaguars breaks away from Georgetown Rebel tacklers to score a try during their Halton high school senior girls' rugby match at Kiwanis Field Tuesday afternoon. Raiders come up just short against Trenton in finals

Their best season in a decade came to an end for the Georgetown Raiders last Friday night in Trenton.

The host Golden Hawks captured the Ontario Junior Hockey League championship with a 2-1 win to take the best-of-7 series 4-1.

Three of Trenton's four victories were one-goal decisions and the other, a 2-0 triumph over the Raiders in game three, came with a last-second empty-netter.

The Buckland Cup final pitted the top two teams in the league during the regular season and there wasn't much separating the teams in a grinding series, with Georgetown scoring just twice in the last three games.

Josh Dickinson got the Raiders on the board 6:35 into the contest Friday, but the veteran-laden Hawks scored early in the next two periods to earn their first-ever OJHL crown and a trip to Kirkland Lake for the Dudley Hewitt Cup beginning May 3.

Shots on goal were even at 27 each in front of a packed Duncan Memorial Arena, listing 1,300 in attendance.

The last time Georgetown made the league final was in 2005 against the St. Michael's Buzzers, who won in six games, but the Raiders went on to win the Dudley Hewitt Cup in Georgetown over the Buzzers and got a berth into the Royal Bank Cup national championship.

The Raiders could be in good position again next season as just three players, net-minder Andrew Masters, forward Brendan Jacome and defender Kyle Allan, are set to graduate due to age.

There's little time for turnaround as the club has a development camp scheduled for the Powerade Centre in Brampton May 10-13.

Silver for Nurse at World Cup

The path to this summer's Olympics in Rio de Janeiro for Canada's women's eights rowing team traversed through Italy recently with a silver medal effort at the opening World Cup event of the season.

Local resident Cristy Nurse is looking to earn a spot in the Canadian boat for the Summer Olympics in Brazil later this summer, after having to serve as an alternate at the 2012 Games in England due to a lower back injury.

Canada's eights, having already qualified for the field in Rio, tuned up for their 2016 campaign by leading for much of the way at the World Rowing Cup in Varese, Italy, but were nipped at the finish line by the Netherlands, just 0.24 seconds behind the winners time of six minutes, 22.38 seconds.

Nurse, a 29-year-old University of Ottawa law school graduate who sits second from the bow with the eights, will compete again with her Canuck teammates at the next World Cup race in Lucerne, Switzerland prior to training camps in Italy and the National Training Centre in London, Ont.

The Georgetown District High School graduate has represented Canada five times at the World Championships.

The final roster for the women's eights team for the Summer Olympics is expected to be named in late June.

Canada qualified in that event for Rio by finishing third at last year's World Championships behind the reigning title-holder U.S. and New Zealand.

JENNA SARTORETTO

SPRINGING INTO NATIONALS: At just 10 years of age, Georgetown's Jenna Sartoretto will represent Ontario in next month's Gymnastics Canada Championships in Edmonton in the girls' 11-13 novice division at the University of Alberta. The former Sacre Coeur Elementary School student, who now trains with Mississauga's Futures Gymnastics and is enrolled in the Holly Crest Middle School's High Performer Program in Toronto, won the all-around title at the Canuck Cup last weekend in Mississauga, earning five gold medals. Sartoretto was named City-TV's Athlete of the Year for 2015 and will also appear in an upcoming episode of the Family Channel's Savvy Girls.
