

Project Viator to focus on Georgetown South Monday

Halton Police aim to provide each municipality within the region high levels of traffic enforcement, which focuses on locations that expose road users to the greatest risks.

These locations often involve those roads that have the highest posted speed limit, volumes of traffic and controlled intersections where the exposure to risk and severity of collisions is the greatest.

In an effort to ensure that ALL roads receive the policing they deserve Project Viator (traveler) will focus police resources on identified high-risk residential sub divisions within the region. Police analytics was used to determine how many public traffic complaints were received within a 12-month period. This data was added to the number of injury and property damage collisions reported within the same time period to determine those sub divisions that are exposed to the greatest risk.

Three residential areas will receive enhanced patrols early next week and Georgetown South has been targeted for Monday, Aug. 8.

Bounded by Hungry Hollow to the north, 10 Sideroad to the south, Tenth Line to the east and Eighth Line to the west, this area had 94 incidents in the past 12 months: two injury collisions, 25 damage-only collisions, 56 traffic complaints and 11 Road Watch complaints.
