

Habitat Halton hosting biggest recruitment event ever

This fall, Habitat for Humanity Halton will host its biggest community outreach event ever to promote its biggest building project ever. Since 1999, Habitat Halton has been working with volunteers from across the region to build affordable homes for families in need. Now, after 15 years and 21 homes completed, our organization is working to assist more hardworking families than ever by building 75 homes in the next five years. To make this ambitious goal possible, we need help from many more people throughout Halton, which is why we are excited to announce our community-wide volunteer recruitment fair at Burlington Mall, corner of Guelph Line and Fairview St. in Burlington from on September 26 and 27 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The entire community will have the opportunity to learn about Habitat Halton's work and to build and connect with their community through hands-on demonstrations. Habitat build crew members will be building a 200-square-foot model home in the Burlington Mall parking lot and inviting everyone interested to pick up a hammer and help. A Kids' Zone will give children a chance to learn building skills with birdhouse making kits and other fun activities. Refreshments will be served throughout the day. There is sure to be something for everyone.

With 16 home builds planned across the Halton Region this year alone, there is room for many people of different skill levels on our build sites. We offer a positive environment where everyone can learn new skills and contribute to the best of their ability. Habitat Halton provides all the necessary safety training, tools and supervision to each volunteer. Many volunteers leave our build sites surprised at how much they have helped build.
