Support group for children's mental health?

Robert Little Public School recently hosted 49 participants at the "What's In Your Toolbox?" workshop, held in conjunction with the school-wide Constellation day where grades K-6 students worked together to come to a common understanding of what is kindness and caring.

Parents learned effective communication strategies, with the school and community groups to advocate for their children. Life-coach Darlene Wierski-Devoe noted parents must approach community partners in a child's life with a collaborative approach.

There is a need to shift the mindset from the need to "fix it" to the need to "support it". Participants learned how harmful stigma – words, thoughts and beliefs about mental illness – can negatively affect kids living with a mental illness.

Participants want a parent support group in the north of Halton Region and Robert Little School Council is collecting names of interested parents.

To register, please contact Robert Little School Council at rlschoolcouncil@hotmail.com
