

ACTON CITIZENS BAND PRESENTS...

SPRING CONCERT

"Musical Curiosities and other pieces"

SUNDAY, JUNE 9th

2:00 p.m.

Bethel Church
365 Queen St.

Programme:

- A march sold millions of razor blades.
 - Young animals named after an American President, who wouldn't do something, have a celebration.
 - A fine march, based on a bugle call, composed by a new bandmaster for the famous 93 Highlander regiment in 1908 was not published until 1925. Why?
 - An Overture played in 1947 by Acton Boys and Girls Band earned first prize in it's section at the CNE; much to everyone's surprise, including the Band's.
 - A special march is demanded by audiences at the end of every Band concert in New York's Central Park from 1923; they would, and did, whistle or sing the trio.
 - Music for an instrument carried on every public coach in Britain and Europe 1600 1800s; even Mozart wrote a piece for it.
 - A world famous trombonist composed a piece about what to do when walking your dog.
 - 1930's Operatta 'The Student Prince'.
 - 1970's Musical 'Les Miserables'.
- And much much more!

There will be refreshments following the concert.
Donations to the Acton FoodShare gratefully received.

POPPAS POSSE: Members of Poppa's Posse – family and friends of the late Don Lindsay of Acton – took part in the annual ALS Walk in Georgetown on Saturday to raise money for the neuromuscular disease, also known as Lou Gehrig's disease. Poppa's Posse raised approximately $3,500 for the cause. – Submitted photo

Sale of Geo-Foundations means growth for Acton firm

Acton's Geo-Foundations Contractors has been sold, but is not moving to Mississauga as rumoured. The Main Street North firm – specialists in ground modification systems – continues with founder Todd Edmunds as President of the company which is now a subsidiary of Hayward Baker Canada, owned by Keller Foundations of England.

"They came courting," Todd Edmunds said of the long process that led to the deal. His said on Tuesday the biggest change for Acton will be expansion to increase the current $20-million annually in revenue. "We have a mandate to double the business within five years. The challenge will be finding people, not work,"

Edmunds said they need qualified field labourers and drillers.

Edmunds doesn't expect he new owner to "tamper" with local successes, and will allow the Acton office a "little more freedom to develop a business."

Geo-Foundations' website said it provides a full range of ground engineering technologies applicable to geotechnical construction, with particular focus on solutions related to earth retention, foundation support, ground improvement, and ground treatment. There are 80 employees in Acton.
