UCHS Fiona a sweet, accepting dog

By Judith-Anne Kolu
info@uppercredit.com

Sweetheart Fiona loves to spend time with her family and enjoys resting by the fire.

Submitted photo

Fiona will be by your side constantly and would prefer to lounge by a nice fire during the winter months as she is a medium energy dog. She will require a fenced yard to keep her safe and would be suitable for life with an adult family, or one with children old enough to really build a bond with her.

Fiona is one terrific dog, so eager to get on with her life. Interested families please call the shelter at 519-833-2287 or email info@uppercredit.com

Fiona presents as intelligent, accepting, loving and calm, attractively dressed in her white coat with tan markings and weighing 60 lbs.

Looking at Fiona it is hard to imagine how she is very sweet and trusting as she was transferred from another rescue where she had arrived as a stray and it is obvious that she has had a few litters of puppies.

However, Fiona's spirit is one of acceptance; she makes human friends quickly although she is particular about which dogs she'll be friendly with.

Fiona is housebroken, has her basic commands and is very easy to walk on leash. She loves to play and relishes human company and the loving pats and belly rubs that come her way.

NHKR: A perfect pair in Macaroni and Cheese

Sisters Macaroni and Cheese are adventurous, loving and ready to join a busy and tolerant household.

Macaroni and Cheese, the perfect balance of adorable and mischief.

Macaroni and Cheese think of themselves as people. They cuddle with people as they do with each other and want everyone to join in their games. Night time can be an adventure as they enjoy piling on sleeping people just as kittens pile on each other.

The girls are social with other cats and friendly with dogs. Macaroni and Cheese enjoy meeting new people especially if cuddles and scratches are forthcoming.

Their mother was found skinny, dirty and matted, obviously not accustomed to fending for herself outdoors. Mom also had a nasty upper respiratory infection, which she passed on to the kittens at birth. The kittens required antibiotics to rid themselves of the infection and are now healthy and vibrant with energy.

The girls have the same high-activity level; they want to help with all tasks and investigate everything. They see personal belongings as possible toys and enjoy watching items fall to the floor.

And no space is out of bounds for them, if the stack of books they launched themselves on falls over, they check it out and leap into the next adventure.

Macaroni and Cheese are easily handled for nail clipping at the end of a play session and they are clean with their litter box although it needs to be deep, as they are enthusiastic diggers.

The girls would thrive in a tolerant, busy household with multiple people to snuggle them.

Macaroni, Cheese and Anise will be available for adoption at Pet Valu South 369 Mountainview Road Oct. 16 from 2-4 p.m. Other felines at Pet Valu 235 Guelph St. from 10 a.m.-1 p.m.

For adoption info and pictures and profiles of the felines available visit www.NHKR.ca
