Jane Myhal

Links by Jane Handcrafted Jewelry

There is no better feeling for Jane than seeing someone wearing one of her jewellery creations at her latest craft show that had been purchased at a previous show!

Owner and designer Jane Myhal of Links By Jane has been creating unique jewellery since 2013 and loves working in Halton Hills because it is such a special community. To keep herself current, she takes Business Management at Ryerson University as well as jewellery-making at George Brown College.

Silver-plated, brass components, findings, chains, faceted Swarovski crystals, pearls and boldly coloured natural stone cabochons are what help Jane shape, design and make her unique jewellery. Pliers, cement and various metal files help develop her pieces into wearable and unique art all at her kitchen table where the lighting is perfect.

Since she was very young, she draws inspiration from her Mom who wore exquisite statement pieces, either a ring or large pendant around her neck, always something that stood out. She now feels blessed because her daughter Jessica helps her with her craft shows and loves spending this time with her.

I love that I get to develop a personal relationship with each client - I feel that it is truly the key to making each event a unique and special affair to remember. Amanda, a Certified Wedding Planner (WPIC) and graduate of George Brown for Culinary Management, has over 12 years of experience in the industry and leaves nothing to chance. I'm a very detail-oriented person, says Amanda. This helps me focus on even the smallest aspects (that sometimes turn out to be the most important).
