

Remember to support your local businesses this Christmas

With fierce competition and online shopping platforms gaining popularity, many small businesses have experienced hard times over the last few years and a few have been forced to close up shop. But these closures are not without consequences, as local shops help create a neighbourhood's culture and atmosphere.

According to a recent survey, approximately nine-in-ten Canadians agree that local businesses play an important role in their neighbourhood and 71 per cent agree that they would rather live close to local businesses, rather than large retail establishments.

Supporting small local businesses directly contributes to the vitality of neighbourhoods and the sustainability of communities.
