Gift-wrapping available at Georgetown Market Place

For those who don't have the time or aren't good at wrapping Christmas gifts, a group of volunteers located in the Georgetown Market Place will be happy to put a bow on your shopping excursion over the next couple of weeks.

A free-will donation is being requested for the service.

Part of the proceeds to the Angel Fund will go to residents at the Bennett Centre retirement facility to help cover the cost of outings to places such as the John Elliott

Theatre, Toronto Zoo, Royal Botanical Gardens and Mohawk Raceway.

The Angel Fund also provides take-out suppers for residents to either order in or visit their favourite restaurant as a departure from the regular routine.

Volunteer gift-wrappers can be found in front of Bergsma's Paint & Decor near the food court in the Market Place.

Proceeds from the gift-wrapping also go to the Georgetown Christian Reformed Church's Youth Program.
