Local artist Dan Talevski tours with Backstreet Boy Nick Carter

For three weeks, local artist Dan Talevski found himself singing his heart out to an audience of at least 1,000 people every night. The kicker? He was one of the opening acts for none other than former Backstreet Boy, Nick Carter.

In September, Talevski's agent got a call about Nick Carter doing an All Canadian Tour from Nov. 8-24, and his team wanted Talevski to audition for an opening act.

I had it in my head that I was doing it already, Talevski said of his attitude before the approval. I knew I had a 50/50 shot, and then I got a call a couple days later and they said I was approved and he wanted me on.

After some rehearsals in Toronto, the tour started and so did a grueling schedule.

The teams started in North Bay and most days, interviews at local television channels and radio stations would call Talevski back to Toronto for a call time at 4 a.m. After he arrived, the stations would do a sound check, and finally Talevski could sing almost four hours after his arrival.

It was the most grueling schedule, he said. It was really hard sometimes, but it was worth it.

The tour took Talevski and his band from North Bay to Edmonton, Winnipeg and into B.C. all in a minivan. At the end of the trip, Talevski estimates they spent over 80 hours in a car. According to the agents of every venue the team performed at, Talevski's performance stole the show.
