

CALLING ALL GUESS WHO FANS!

ALL-CANADIAN "GUESS WHO" & "BTO" TRIBUTE COMING TO GEORGETOWN

Celebrate the music of the "Guess Who", "BTO" and Burton Cummings with No Sugar Tonight when it comes to the John Elliot Theatre

Calling all Canadian classic rock fans! Don't miss the incredible, new touring show "No Sugar Tonight" coming live to the intimate John Elliott Theatre in Halton Hills on Sunday January 15th for a special matinee performance at 3pm. "No Sugar Tonight" features an ALL-CANADIAN cast of accomplished musicians, capturing the powerful vocals, dynamic rhythm, sizzling lead guitar and pumping piano of three legendary Canadian artists: The Guess Who, Bachman Turner Overdrive and Burton Cummings.

This audience - interactive performance celebrates three decades of iconic Canadian hits including "American Woman", "Taking Care of Business", "These Eyes", "Stand Tall", "No Time", "My Own Way To Rock" "Laughing" and of course "No Sugar Tonight" amongst the many audience favourites. In addition to great music, "No Sugar Tonight" includes entertaining and witty banter about the stories behind the songs to further enhance the audience experience.

Tickets to see this incredible show at the John Elliot Theatre on Sunday January 15th for a special matinee performance at 3pm are on sale now, value priced at only $35 all inclusive. On patrol with Halton police Officers assigned to Project Juno have wrapped up for another holiday season. However, Halton Regional Police remind the public that officers are on the lookout for impaired drivers 365 days of the year.

Project Juno is a response unit of officers who were patrolling the roads throughout the month of December, employing RIDE programs and other enforcement methods in order to stop impaired drivers.

The HRPS invited an Independent & Free Press reporter to ride alongside Acting Sgt. David Rivers for three hours on the Saturday night before Christmas in the north Halton area to get an idea of what officers encounter during a regular shift.

Freezing rain had resulted in several serious accidents in the area that night and even construction-snarled Steeles Ave. in Hornby has few vehicles on it.

But Rivers has a number of locales to visit in Acton and Georgetown in his unmarked cruiser, observing for types of driver behaviour from patrons in the parking lot or behind the wheel of a vehicle.
